Stroudsburg Piles Up 4,000 Vote

THE 43rd JUDICIAL District race on the Democratic ticket was won by Russell Mervine in yesterday's Primary election. The 43rd covers both Monroe and Pike Counties.

The Stroudsburg attorney, making his first try for political office, piled up 3,517 votes to 1,960 for incumbent Judge Fred W. Davis. Judge Davis had cross-filed on both tickets.

On the Republican side, Davis was given 2,688 in a relatively-mild turnout of GOP voters. There was little interest among GOP voters in the election since most posts on that ticket were uncontested.

Districts

Mervine led Davis in all Monroe County districts but two — Delaware Water Gap and Paradise Township — in the Democratic nomination race. His lead was established with early returns and did not diminish through the course of the night.

In Pike County, at 12:45 a.m., Mervine held a 417-181 lead over Davis. The court included 11 of the 14 districts.

Other results on the GOP ticket in the election were the following: For treasurer — Donald Dimmick, a newcomer, had 2,306 votes; for jury commissioner, Clair Learn, running without opposition, had 2,362 votes; for county surveyor, Guyton Kempter had 1,928 votes.

Bangor Strike Moves Into Court Today

BANGOR—After a spurt of violence over the weekend, the Blue Ridge Textile Co. strike moves into the calm atmosphere of Northampton County Courtroom this morning at 10.

In Easton President Judge William Barthold will take under consideration a company plea to ban picketing entirely from in front of the Blue Ridge plants in Bangor.

Yesterday at Easton Post Office a National Labor Relations Board examiner listened to opening testimony in hearings which will decide whether a unionization election will be held within the plant's employe ranks.

Testimony

Examiner Eugene M. Levine, Fourth Region of the Philadelphia NLRB District, heard testimony from the following yesterday:

R. Kenneth Ace, president of the Bangor Chamber of Commerce, who described his efforts to "settle" the strike and to act as "mediator" for the two opposing forces. Ace said he was "warned" by pickets not to get "mixed up in the controversy." After the warning, Ace said, he no longer attempted to act as arbiter.

Joseph Rader and Samuel Frost, local representatives of Textile Workers Union of America, and William H. Englander, assistant general counsel for TWUA national union, who said that the union did not represent the "majority" of Blue Ridge workers at the present time.

They said the union had merely offered its help to strikers in the eventual settlement of the strike.

An NLRB ruling on the proposed election should be made within 30 days after the hearing is completed.

English To Fill Beck's AFL-CIO Post

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—John F. English, No. 2 national officer of the Teamsters Union, was tapped today to fill Dave Beck's vacant chair in high AFL-CIO councils. He promptly revealed that Teamsters officials will soon consider ousting Beck as union president.

The union's Executive Board will hold a special meeting to consider Beck's status, he told a reporter.

English, 68-year old Teamsters general secretary treasurer and longtime foe of Beck within the union, was chosen earlier in the day to succeed Beck as an AFL-CIO vice president and Executive Council member.

Experts Fear Record Spending

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Despite congressional vows to cut the budget, House tax experts forecast today that federal spending in 1958 may soar more than a billion dollars above President Eisenhower's figure of $71,800,000,000.

Congressional budget cutters are aiming at a three or four billion dollar reduction in Eisenhower's appropriations requests for the new bookkeeping year starting July 1.

37 Perish As Tornado Strikes Kansas

KANSAS CITY, May 21 (AP) — A brick by brick search of shattered homes and stores was underway today for more possible victims of a radar - tracked tornado that killed at least 37 and injured more than 200 in a slash through Kansas City suburbs early last night.

The cautious hunt was ordered in the Ruskin Heights sub-division where the storm dealt its heaviest blow, crushing a busy shopping center and an estimated 100 homes, besides damaging hundreds of other residences.

The Kansas City Star estimated damage would range between 10 and 20 million dollars.

Authorities at mid-afternoon still were struggling to clarify casualty lists. An error in the coroner's office at one time jumped the total dead to 44, but this was revised within an hour.

Tabulation

The best available tabulation from all sources showed 31 dead in the various suburban areas of Jackson County, Mo., including the adjacent communities of Ruskin Heights and Hickman Mills; four at Spring Hill, Kan., and two at Ottawa, Kan.

While search went on for other victims in the Kansas City area tornadoes were reported to have caused an undetermined number of casualties and heavy property damage in southern and eastern Missouri areas, including Van Buren, Fremont, Squires, Cantwell, Desloge and near Columbia, Ill., south of St. Louis.

The detailed search of the ruins produced early results. The body of Mrs. Paul Guyll, 44, school nurse, was found crushed beneath a row of overturned lockers in the smashed high school building.

The tornado, with one main and several accompanying funnels, started its death-dealing at Ottawa. Advance warning had been given by the Kansas City Weather Bureau early in the afternoon that tornadoes were likely and when the first twister formed and began moving northeastward toward Kansas City, the bureau poured out a steady stream of radar tracking reports.

These bulletins were broadcast and telecast by Kansas City radio and TV stations along with advice on what precautions persons living in the projected path of the storm should take to insure safety.

Most of the metropolitan area was buffeted by rain, hail and wind with accompanying thunder and lihtning throughout the storm period.

Crazy

The main tornado veered crazily as it twisted out of the rolling eastern Kansas countryside. It swept up a farm house at Ottawa, Kan., some 70 miles southwest of Kansas City, killing two. It dipped into Spring Hill, Kan., killing four more persons, but swerved to the east of Olathe, Kan., and the Naval Air Station about 40 miles southwest of the downtown Kansas City area. It missed the heavily populated southwest suburban area around Overland Park and Fairway. Then it crossed into Missouri at Martin City, 15 miles due south of downtown Kansas City, at 136th street.

Leader Blasts Budget Cutting

HARRISBURG, May 21 (AP)—Gov. Leader today described Republican budget cutting as "reckless surgery on the bone, muscle and sinew of needed (state) services."

He called Republican plans to slice 94½ million dollars from his proposed $1,559,000,000 general fund budget an "irresponsible action."

In a statement the governor cautioned Republicans "a day of reckoning will come and the people of this Commonwealth will not forget the men of uneasy conscience who were responsible for this irresponsible action."

The Republican-controlled Joint Appropriations Committee detailed exactly where the ax will fall.

Bills carrying out the recommendations will be submitted tomorrow.

A record $1,107,000,000 general appropriations measure is also ready for consideration.

Doran Upsets Harris For Democratic Mayor Listing

Westbrook Tops Field For County Treasurer

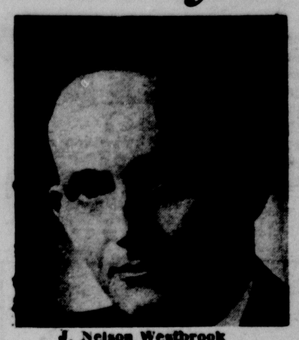
J. NELSON Westbrook, the favorite to win the Democratic nomination for treasurer, came through yesterday with a 577-vote lead over Claude Metzgar.

Westbrook had 2,738 votes as the final unofficial tally was completed. Metzgar was the runner-up with 2,161 votes. Running a poor third was Stroudsburg Dr. William Andrew with a total of 282 votes.

For Westbrook it was an initial try at public office and a thumping success. Metzgar, longtime public office-holder and party supporter in Monroe county, was making a bid for return to the public scene.



J. Nelson Westbrook

Metzgar was formerly county prothonotary and clerk of courts and is now affiliated with the local shed of the State Highways Department.

Westbrook led Metzgar in 19 of the county's 35 districts. He lost some of his lead in the mountain districts and other outlying areas where Metzgar, through long experience in local campaigning, is better known.

But the lead the Stroudsburg funeral director had drawn from boroughs and surrounding areas was more than enough to keep his strength showing.

Eisenhower Pictures Aid Foes As Blind

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — President Eisenhower, in the fightingest speech of his second term, tonight pictured foes of foreign aid as blind and reckless gamblers, whose advice could lead to "disaster"—the loss of peace and freedom.

The President went to bat for his $3,865,000,000 mutual security program in a speech prepared for delivery over nation-spanning television and radio.

As he has before in defending his budget, Eisenhower declared the "cost of peace is high in this atomic age."

"Yet the price of war is higher and is paid in different coin—with the lives of our youth and the devastation of our cities," Eisenhower said.

Congress

Obviously hitting at members of Congress who want to cut the foreign aid program, the President then went on to say:

"The road to this disaster could easily be paved with the good intentions of those blindly striving to save the money that must be spent as the price of peace."

Eisenhower, speaking from his White House office, added that "to try to save money at the risk of such damage" to the mutual security program "is neither conservative nor constructive." Then he declared:

"It is reckless.

"It could mean the loss of peace. It could mean the loss of freedom. It could mean the loss of both.

"I know that you would not wish your government to take such a reckless gamble.

Eisenhower's TV-radio talk was his second appeal of the day in behalf of his foreign aid program, already scaled down from the administration's original figure of $4,400,000,000.

The first was in a special message to Congress formally requesting $3,865,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But the odds appeared against the President's getting that much. The administration's foreign aid request usually is trimmed at the capitol, and the lawmakers are in a more economy minded mood than usual.

Sounding the same theme he did in his message to Congress, Eisenhower pictured the foreign aid program as "the most concrete and practical way how collective effort and collective security serve our national good." He added:

Attempt

"For our nation to try, completely alone, to counter the Communist military threat would be not only more hazardous strategy; it would also be far more costly. It would demand many billions of dollars more in defense expenditures.

"It would mean raising the draft calls throughout our land. It would mean more of our sons in uniform. It would mean longer service for them."

The President, in his direct appeal to the people for support, repeated what he told Congress—that during the last seven years the United States has provided allies around the world some 17 billion dollars in direct military assistance. He also said anew that during that same period the defense budgets of America's allies have totaled some 107 billion dollars.

Fine's Court Bid Near Rejection

By The Associated Press

FORMER Republican Gov. John S. Fine failed Tuesday to make a successful political comeback in Pennsylvania's primary.

His seeming defeat was in a contest to win nomination to the Luzerne County Common Pleas Court, a contest which afforded the chief interest in an election that failed, generally, to attract the state's voters in any impressive numbers.

Whitenight Elected

DANVILLE, May 21 (AP) — Democrat Donald Whitenight was elected to the State House of Representatives today, regaining the seat he lost last November to the late John R. Quigg.

Incumbent Fails In Fight For Seventh Term

EDWARD DORAN scored a stunning "upset" defeat over Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris yesterday as final returns in the primary gave Doran 714 unofficial votes to 313 for Harris.

It was a crushing blow to the myth that Burgess Harris was an invincible political force in Stroudsburg. He had held the office of Chief Burgess for six terms and was seeking a seventh.

For most voters in The Stroudsburgs — and, surprisingly, in Monroe County's other districts — it was the major news of the day. Few political observers had been willing to predict defeat for Harris.

Although the burgess had become one of the most controversial figures in Stroudsburg's political history, his hold on the electorate was still believed to be too strong to crack.

Edward A. Doran

First Ward

When a first "unofficial" word-of-mouth report came in to Monroe County Court House it was from Stroudsburg's First Ward. That report showed Doran leading 134 to 38 votes for Harris.

Observers in the commissioner's office and in the hallway noted that "this one comes from Ed's own ward — he ought to pile up a lead there."

When the full unofficial returns were in, however, they showed the magnitude of Harris' defeat at the hands of a councilman who has kept up a running squabble with him during recent months on a variety of measures.

This was the unofficial tally by wards:

First Ward — Doran, 134; Harris, 38. Second Ward — Doran, 152; Harris, 77. Third Ward — Doran, 151; Harris, 88. Fourth Ward — Doran, 103; Harris, 52. Fifth Ward — Doran, 174; Harris, 58.

In the Republican "race" there was no opposition. Dr. Samuel Sullivan ran without opposition and piled up 394 votes.

Doran also racked up some votes as write-ins on the Republican ticket, when unofficial tallies came in. These showed that he had a total of 34 write-in votes on that ticket at least.

Full and complete write-in totals will not be known until after the official vote count is made.

Harris also received one GOP write-in in the Second Ward.

Write-Ins Successful

A LAST-MINUTE write-in and sticker campaign by Robert Harvey, Stroud Township, for the Democratic school director nomination paid off with 49 write-ins on his own ticket and 10 on the Republican ticket yesterday.

Harvey thus earned the right to oppose incumbent Stroud Union School Board member Loring Cramer in the November election.

Write-in totals were not competed for all three Stroud districts. But in the two in which they were counted Harvey secured a spot on the general election ballot. His candidacy was not officially announced until this past weekend.

Position With State

HARRISBURG, May 21 (AP)—Dr. John F. Adams, Temple University professor, will become executive director of the state Bureau of Employment Security, effective June 13.

Turnout At County Polls Proves Light

FOR AN ELECTION day it was one of the dullest within memory.

Old-timers who sat around outside election houses yesterday were agreed on that one central point.

Statistics bore them out. When the polls closed officially at 9 p. m. only about 5,181 or 49 per cent of the 10,567 registered Democrats had voted in by far the larger of the two party turnouts.

Republicans made a much smaller dent in their registration. Figures showed that only 2,688 or 36 per cent of the 7,345 registered GOP voters went to the polls.

Races

Interest in the primary was lowered considerably by a lack of races in most areas. This was especially true on the Republican side of the ledger where there were no contests at all for the major county offices up for nomination.

There were races in all the Democratic slots—for judge, treasurer, coroner and jury commissioner.

But most of the interest inspired in the election came from purely local races such as those for township supervisor posts or school director nominations in townships and boroughs.

In Northern Hamilton's voting district at 10:58 yesterday morning only 31 persons had voted. Of that total 25 were Democrats.

The story was basically the same throughout the county. Voting registrars and election officials waited patiently at polling places.

Most of the time they spent there was devoted to discussion of the weather, community affairs and "why people don't vote" in primaries.

Security Council Prods Egypt To Clear Up Quickly Questions On Operation Of Suez Canal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 21 (AP)—The Security Council president today prodded Egypt to clear up as quickly as possible all questions on operation of the Suez Canal. The Council put the controversial issue on the shelf pending developments.

These developments came as the French National Assembly in Paris dealt a surprise defeat to the government of Premier Guy Mollet and indirectly undermined the French position here.

The passing of the Mollet regime deprived Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of any power to deal further with issues here except as a lame-duck acting minister.

Pineau had flown here to press for Council action to force Egypt to yield on its unilateral operation of the Suez Canal. He flew to Washington last night for a conference today with Secretary of State Dulles and back here for the Council windup.

Without taking a vote, the Council gave assent to a statement by its president, U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge. Lodge's summary wound up a two-day debate touched off by the French demand or new negotiations for a permanent settlement of the canal question.

Just before making his summary statement, Lodge made it clear the United States had refused to go along with the French proposal for new negotiations. He told the Council, as U. S. Delegate, that the United States continues to hold the view that a declaration made by Egypt on April 24 does not entirely meet the Council requirements but the United States still is willing to give it a trial.

Pineau assailed the Cairo declaration in a speech to the Council yesterday and called on the Council to request new negotiations for a settlement on a basis of six principles approved unanimously by the Council last Oct. 13.

Mollet Resigns As French Premier After Losing Vote

PARIS, May 21 (AP) — Socialist Premier Guy Mollet handed in his resignation tonight after losing a confidence vote in the National Assembly.

President Rene Coty seized on a technical point to delay acceptance. Coty said he will consult with Assembly leaders and decide tomorrow whether to ask Mollet to stay on.

Coty's point was that Mollet's opposition failed to muster an absolute majority — currently 298 votes—as required under the constitution to force a premier to quit.

Program

Beaten on his "beat the rebel" fiscal program of belt tightening, Mollet said he will insist on quitting.

Emerging from Elysee Palace, Mollet told reporters that if Coty asks him to continue he will refuse.

The President, preparing for a state visit to Washington, faces the bleak task of trying to replace the Mollet regime that had proved to be the most stable France has had in postwar years.

Mollet and his cabinet were applauded as they filed out of the Assembly that had turned them out of office.

Trogner Predicts Unfavorable Bypass Reaction

By Paul Carlson

CITIZENS BYPASS Committee of Monroe County last night predicted that public reaction would be unfavorable to the state-recommended alignment because advocates have rejected an invitation to debate the issue tomorrow night.

At the same time, the citizens committee announced that it has invited Gen. George Richards, deputy secretary of highways, to discuss the matter since three local advocates have turned down the group's bid.

Contacted in Harrisburg last night, Gen. Richards declined to immediately say whether he could attend the session. However, he indicated he will give his answer in a letter to Arthur M. Trogner, chairman of the citizens committee.

Meanwhile, Trogner has replied to a letter from Charles J Marsh, president of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. and Jackson L. Kerlin, chairman of the businessmen's traffic parking committee.

Kerlin informed the committee he would not attend its meeting at East Stroudsburg Junior High School tomorrow, and questioned the need of another public meeting.

Earlier, former Rep. Van D. Yetter, Jr., and Horace G. Heller, general manager of The Daily Record, indicated they would not be in attendance, and questioned the bypass committee's reference that they were "proponents" of the state-recommended Plan A.

All three men contended that the real proponents of Plan A were the State Highways Department and the consulting firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter.

However, in reply to this, Trogner noted that "careful examination of the word 'proponent' in Merrian Webster's large international dictionary will disclose that the definition ends with the words, 'and hence an advocate.'

"We do not believe that you, Van Yetter, or Heller will deny that you are advocates of Plan A," Trogner said in a written reply to Kerlin.

The whole course of procedure of the proponents (and hence advocates) of Plan A has been to jam it through as quickly as possible before too many people had the chance to learn what it was all about," the letter stated.

"Anyone who is brash enough to ask for facts is labeled 'a small, selfish group,' it continued. "Yet it is this 'small selfish group' which is willing and anxious to explain and defend its position and to let the public at large, who are the ones to pay the bill, judge for themselves."

The text of Trogner's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Kerlin:

Your letter of May 20 just received. It is too bad that your absence from town delayed your receipt of our letter of May 14.

Our committee notes with regret your refusal to join in bringing both sides of this tremendously important civic problem before the public where everybody will have full opportunity to hear all the details and form intelligent opinions for themselves as to what should be done.

We notice that you have adopted the same position as Mr. Horace Heller in stating that you are not a "proponent" of Plan "A" since you did not "propose" it, but that that was done by the famous firm of Consulting Engineers. Careful examination of the definition of the word "proponent" in the Merriam Webster's large International dictionary will disclose that the definition ends with the words, "and hence an advocate." We do not believe that either yourself, Van Yetter, or Heller will deny that you are "advocates" of Plan "A."

The meeting on February 13 you refer to as being sponsored by the Stroudsburg Business Men's Assn. was not an open public meeting. It was by invitation only and in fact our committee was not even invited until we forced the issue. Is it your contention that a matter of such economic and civic importance to ALL the people of Monroe County should be decided by just a few of the elite? Is it the idea that only a few should know a little about the details and the people at large should "take it and like it?"

The only argument presented by the advocates of Plan "A" is that it is proposed by this famous firm of engineers, yet General Richards himself has admitted that the only excuse for running such a highway right through both Boroughs was because it was intended to carry an equal amount of local interboro traffic. The absurdity of this argument is apparent to any one who tries to picture employees in the plants all located in the Northern end of East Stroudsburg winding their way down to the gates of Prospect Cemetery to get on this road to travel over to Broad Street in Souh Stroudsburg and thence up Fifth Street to their homes up on the hill and in the Clearview Section.

The whole course of procedure of the proponents (and hence advocates) of Plan "A" has been to jam it through as quickly as possible before too many people had the chance to learn what it is all about. Anybody who is brash enough to ask for facts is labeled "a small selfish group." Yet it is this "small selfish group" which is willing and anxious to explain and defend its position and to let the public at large, who are the ones to pay the bill, judge for themselves.

As to the nine Civic, Municipal, and Business Organizations that you state have formally approved this route, we know that there is not one of these organizations which have had all the implications and details of this route explained to them. Most of them are on record because they were pressured into action (with no more details than a line on the map) with the argument that they should take this or get nothing. Even the action of your Business Men's Assn., which you refer to, was taken with only nine men present and even then was not unanimous. Our Committee asked your Association for the opportunity to explain the whole proposition to your membership but were turned down because you didn't have the time to listen.

We are sincerely sorry that the advocates of Plan "A" have not welcomed this opportunity to put their side of this issue before the Public since the Public reaction is undoubtedly going to be unfavorable to their cause.

Sincerely yours,
Citizens By-Pass Committee
of Monroe County
Arthur M. Trogner, Chairman

Flames Cause Damage At Keiper's Laundry Building

SEVERAL HUNDRED dollars damage was caused last night when fire of undetermined origin broke out in a truck in the garage of Keiper's Laundry, Inc., on Ninth St.

For a time, the fire threatened several other laundry trucks and the barn in which they were stored. However, Stroudsburg firefighters quickly removed the burning vehicle from the shed before it could cause other damage.

Pressure Hose

The blaze was then extinguished with a high pressure hose. The only other damage was caused to a batch of laundry inside the truck.

The election night blaze brought scores of people to the scene. Some of them were doused with water when a fire hose sprung a leak.

Loan Sought For Expansion Of Plant

Two matters bearing on Monroe County's industrial future came out of Monday's meeting of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

Of immediate import is a decision by the board of directors to apply for a $40,000 loan to finance the expansion of the Trumatic Machine & Tool Co. plant in East Stroudsburg.

The loan, if approved by the State Industrial Development Authority, will provide 30 per cent of the funds needed for new construction. The remaining 70 per cent is being furnished locally. This includes 20 per cent supplied by the Chamber.

Approval of the loan will mean the additional employment of between 25 and 35 male workers, according to the expansion plans as outlined.

Announcement of the loan application is significant from two angles. First, of course, it means new job opportunities will open up to upwards of 35 local area wage earners. The impact will be felt by several times that number, however, as the wages find their way into the economic community.

The other matter pertaining to the industrial picture has to do with establishment of an area technical school to train students in the trades.

The area coordinator of industrial education for the Public Instruction Department told Monday's meeting of the Chamber that present enrollment in county high schools makes it feasible to establish a technical school of 300 to 350 pupils.

Chief value of a trade school, as we see it, is to channel the best efforts of a certain group of students who are not academically inclined into the technical fields where their talents lie.

By making instruction available in the various trades, the technical school serves to encourage the young student who does not want to become a doctor, a teacher, a chemist or an engineer to complete his education in the area of endeavor where he expects to make his living.

We urge school boards to give serious consideration to the technical school idea by exploring all the advantages and disadvantages, and to come up with an answer predicated mainly on what is best for our future generations.

Warnings Of Russia Gaining Upper Hand

From two widely separated sources, the American people were warned the other day that the Russians are outdistancing them.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower told 200 scientists of the Western Hemisphere that "Russia is well ahead of the United States in training scientists."

He was speaking at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, an atomic research center. To add to the importance of his words, he was speaking as the personal representative of his brother, President Eisenhower.

Dr. Eisenhower put his finger on America's weak spot. We lack "skilled, distinguished teachers and advanced students of nuclear energy," he said. Russia is producing more scientists and engineers than we are.

As if to underscore the words of Dr. Eisenhower, Christopher Soames, England's parliamentary secretary of the Admiralty, told members of Parliament that "Russia now has the world's biggest submarine fleet."

He said the Kremlin operates 500 underwater craft—"half of them reportedly built for long-range operations."

Dr. Eisenhower and Secretary Soames point the same direction. They are warning us that we need to increase our emphasis on progress in scientific fields or take second place to Russia.

Futile Daydreaming Was Her Big Problem

By Anne Heywood

Most personality characteristics are two-edged swords. If they are used productively, they can make you enormously successful and happy; used unproductively, they can keep you an unhappy failure.

This is truest of all, it seems to me, when it comes to the quality known as imagination.

Theresa is an example that I will never forget. I first met Theresa a couple of years ago, when she was an unhappy secretary, living in a kind of borderland between reality and unreality. Theresa's trouble, to put it mildly, was that she day-dreamed all the time.

Hated Her Job

"I can't help it," she told me, when we were discussing a career change. "I hate my job, and it bores me, but I haven't any qualifications for advancing. I haven't many friends and I have already done everything you can do to fix up a furnished room. So I just sit by the hour, knitting and listening to music on the radio, and daydreaming about the day I'll be married, or have a fabulous career, be wealthy and famous."

Here was a girl letting her imagination drain her energy, so that she was unable to make a single step toward getting a better job, a better social life or both.

Train Imagination

I suggested that she try to train her imagination to be her friend instead of her enemy. I tried to get her to get out more often. I suggested that she think about making some kind of knitted product that she could sell.

After all, if she was going to spend all that time knitting, anyway, she might as well make some money at it.

It wasn't easy, but she did begin to go out and browse around the knit shops and the art needlework departments of her local stores. She became quite interested in it, as a matter of fact, and one day announced that she could do every bit as well as a lot of them. Still, of course, the habit of daydreaming was a hard one to break.

Dreams Up Ideas

"But now," she told me, "I try to switch my mind. When I find myself up to the old tricks, I try to pull my mind back to my knitting and train my imagination to dream up some accessory."

Eventually, Theresa came up with a cute toy, which a shop in her town is selling.

She is still in her boring job, but she is spending her evenings and weekends with her toy-production and making nice extra money. Eventually she'll be able to have a little home business of her own and then, perhaps, some of her dreams can come true. But her imagination was allowed to run wild for so long, that getting it trained will take time.

She Wasted Her Energies Building Air Castles

Sometimes a good, high-handed philosophical book will help you break the bad, intellectual habits you're in. I'll be glad to send you a list of good ones if you'll send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Business Conditions Will Remain Good Rest Of 1957

Washington, May 21—The first returns are in, and they are much brighter than expected.

Business conditions will be sound and good the remainder of this year.

That is the overall conclusion of a detailed survey just completed by staff experts of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Enonomic Report, headed by Rep. Wright Patman (D., Tex.).

This eagerly-awaited study says it is now pretty definite there will be a "moderate rise" in the national economy in 1957.

The authoritative "Economic Indicator" bases this cheering forecast on three major factors: Further increases in employment, continued rise in personal income, new gains in production.

However, these positive forces are partly offset by two deterrents: Mounting prices, and consumer spending at a higher rate than the increase in individual income.

Also, agriculture continues the "softest spot" in the national economy.

The congressional analysts report a further drop in farmer income in the first quarter. It is put at $300,000,000 less than the growers got in the last quarter of 1956.

On the other hand, extensive public and business construction has more than counteracted the decline in home building due to tight money.

The Joint Committee's significant report will be published next week.

In the past, there have been partisan clashes among committeemen over such findings. There are no inside indications that will happen this time. The survey is primarily statistical, and raises no political issues.

The Score—The report stresses that government spending—federal, state and local—is playing a vital role in the continued prosperity.

This view is strongly supported by the monthly review of the First National City Bank of New York. It particularly cites the importance of increased expenditures for state and local projects.

Says this highly-regarded economic report: "In 1955 consumer expenditures and home buying were features of the business recovery. Last year business capital investment made a notable upsurge. Now government spending is taking over the major role in business advance.

"Between the fourth quarter of last year and the first quarter of this, business spending for plant and equipment showed the smallest quarterly gain in two years. Government outlays, on the other hand, showed the largest rise in five years. This increase in government spending is divided between national security expenditures and state and local projects . . . which are expanding . . . "

The "pro" and "con" highlights of the Joint Committee's report are as follows:

Employment: "Continued increases are expected. Total now stands at 64,261,000 as compared to 63,865,000 in March."

Income: "Showed a moderate rise between the fourth quarter of 1956 and the first quarter of 1957 . . . This increase is expected to continue through the remainder of the year . . . Gross national product rose to $3 billion in the first quarter."

Spending: "Government purchases of goods and services rose to an all-time record high annual rate of $84.9 billion during first quarter. This compares with $82 billion in fourth quarter of 1956. The federal government's annual rate now is $49.8 billion, state and local governments $35 billion, and school districts and others $5.3 billion."

Business Expenditures: "Outlays for plant equipment indicate a continuing rise for this purpose throughout the first half of the year. Anticipated total for 1957 is 6.5 percent above 1956. Second quarter expenditures are indicated at $4 billion more than the same period last year."

Profits: "Corporate profits are holding near 1956 fourth quarter levels despite earlier predictions they would decline. Profits after taxes are $23.5 billion as compared to $23.6 billion for the fourth quarter of 1956, and $22.1 billion for the first quarter of 1956."

Personal Income: "Increased, after taxes, about $2 billion (annual rate) during the first quarter of 1957. Present annual rate is $295.4 billion as compared to $293.3 billion ofr last quarter of 1956."

Two major factors cited in the report are summed up as follows:

Consumer Expenditures: "Rose more than disposable income, which increased, after taxes, $2 billion, while consumer expenditures increased $4.1 billion. Consumer expenditures for first quarter of 1957 jumped to an annual rate of $275 billion, as compared to $270.9 billion for the fourth quarter last year, while disposable income, after taxes, increased to $295.4 billion from $293.3 billion for the same period."

Cost of Living: "Continuing to rise, after increasing throughout all of the last months of 1956. The cost of living index now stands at an all-time high of 118.9 as compared to 114.7 for a year ago."

Fisherman Doesn't Mind Paying Higher Fee If He Can Have Guarantee Of More Trout

East Stroudsburg

J. F. Hill, Editor
Daily Record
Dear Mr. Hill:

I see by the papers where the proposed bill to raise the cost of fishing licenses to $4 from its present rate of $2.50 has been buried in a State House committee, where it is likely to die.

I don't object to paying $4 for a license to fish—that is,if I have some hopes of catching some fish. But I resent paying even $2.50 for the privilege of wading in the streams.

The first day of the season was too cold for good fishing this year. But I was lucky, as it turned out. I caught two trout that day. About a week later, I caught another trout. But that's the limit of my success, despite frequent trips to some of our favorite trout streams.

I thought perhaps my skill as a fisherman was slipping but I find plenty of others who haven't had much more luck than I have had.

One trouble we have run into is this. Too many choice fishing locations are privately owned by clubs and individuals, and are posted against us common folks. That means the mass of fishermen are to be found congregated in the best of the unposted spots. So you can see it doesn't take long for all the trout that are in the streams to be fished out within a short time.

The Poconos have many miles of fine trout streams. Our people are more fishing-minded than are the people in lots of other places. Besides, we attract many visitors who like to fish. But what good is it if there are no trout left in the stream along about this time each year? What are we supposed to do for the rest of the season.

Of course, we can always join a private club or buy ourselves a piece of property along some trout stream. That's if we can afford it. Even if we wanted to join a club, that wouldn't always be possible because some of them are not taking on new members. They seem to be filled with fishermen who, like me and others I know, got tired of staking out a claim along a public stream every time they wanted to go fishing.

Not that I mind associating with other fishermen. It's just that I don't like to spend so much time untangling my fishing line every time it comes into contract with someone else's.

My New York —by Mel Heimer

New York—The stocky little man came out of the Manhattan rain into the peacefulness of mid-afternoon in the expensive little saloon called Danny's Hide-away, shook himself like a dog and looked around uncertainly. "I'm confused," he said. "I'm a little dizzy. This is quite a merry-go-round, isn't it?"

Buster Keaton

That it was.

The man's name was Buster Keaton and now, 10 years after, it had begun to mean something again to the American public. The movie people had bought and filmed his life story and now had sent him along to the east to help publicize the picture. To have reporters ask him morning, noon and night about his meteoric rise and fall over the years, was a little unsettling.

He looks like anyone's uncle now. Thicker around the middle than in the days when he made "The Cameraman" and "The Boat," but the melancholy face is much the same, with only eyeglasses added. We sat in a quiet corner and he ordered an orangeade and lighted a cigaret. His hands were a little unsteady. A lot has happened to Buster Keaton.

"It's funny," he said reflectively. "I'd just about dropped out of circulation before all this." He shook his head slowly. "I drank myself right out of pictures. I guess it was as simple as that." He didn't say it dramatically. He didn't say it in a why-doesn't-someone-write-a-book-about - my tragic-life manner. He just said he'd hit the bottle too much and it had wrapped up his talented career.

New York has changed monstrously since Buster Keaton, back in World War I days—before he became a doughboy and spent seven months in France—was walking down Broadway one day and ran into a couple of acquaintances, one of them Fatty Arbuckle. Fatty had just signed to make movies. Buster had just signed to do the revue "The Passing Show" for the Shuberts.

"Listen," Arbuckle said, as they strolled along, "why don't you come over to the studio in 48th street tomorrow and do a bit in one of my pictures, to see if you like it?" So Buster Keaton did—and liked it so much that in a day or two he told the Shuberts he was passing up their revue for the films.

He grinned. "Only at the end of the week did I learn what kind of money I was making. tI was $40 a week," he said. "And the Shuberts had signed me for $300 for their show. However, it didn't seem to matter. I'd fallen in love with the movies—with the cameras, the rushes, the action, the slam-bang . . . with all of it."

For more than a decade, after that, the Keaton dead-pan was beloved by all America.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

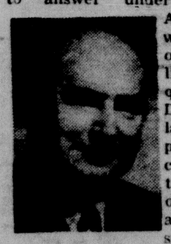
("To have admitted he knew his own son, instead of refusing to answer under the Fifth Amendment, would have opened up a line of further questioning, Dave Beck's lawyers explain. The courts hold, they say, that once a witness answers any specific question he exposes himself to a full questioning on person or issue involved."—News item.)



Don't answer, "Do you know your son??" . . .
A legal point you will have won;
To "How's the family?" lie low,
It "opens up a line" you know.

II

To "Gotta match?" the "Fifth" just plead . . .
(You cannot tell where this may lead);
Clam up to "Won't you take a chair?" . . .
(An answer might lead anywhere.)

III

Should Senators ask "How's the boy?"
Be silent and not merely coy;
To "Wish a glass of water?" bear
In mind a likely legal snare.

IV

To "Nice day, eh?" no answer make . . .
Keep mum on "Ain't this weather fine?" . . .
You must not "OPEN UP A LINE!"

V

To "Know your in-laws?" be a clam . . .
It might involve you in a jam;
"Know Cousin Joe?" . . . No answer grunt;
(It opens up a "cousin front.")

Why do you suppose Dave Beck put his son into the beer business? . . . (Any idea of changing "BOCK beer" into "BECK beer?") . . . The Senate sub-committee is told that Dave Junior got the largest Anheuser Busch territory in the country at $1,000 a month and a commission per case. . . . Maybe there was to be a "Sonny Boy Brew." . . . P. L. T. wans to know if Papa Beck by any chance ever tried to get a cut from all recordings of "The Stein Song." . . . We award some sort of a prize to George Gobel, the comedian, for this remark, "I haven't any of the artistic problems fashionable stars of stage, screen and TV have. I get along with my own wife real well, I don't blame my parents for anything. And I don't need a psychiatrist to tell my troubles to." . . . The performer of the year, say we . . . The D.A.R. protests against signs "GEO. WASH. BRIDGE" on the big structure across the Hudson, holding such an abbreviation of the name of the Father of Our Country is offensive .

Allen Feels Ike To Win Ratification

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, May 21—President Eisenhower will win the first crucial round in the touch-and-go battle for Senate ratification of the "atoms-for-peace" treaty.

The Foreign Relations Committee will definitely approve this pact.

That will clear the way for early Senate consideration of the key underlying issue of whether the U.S. shall become a member of the International Atomic Energy Agency created by the treaty.

The outcome of the Senate fight is still conjectural.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland, Calif., Senator John Bricker (R-Ohio) and others will offer major reservations. Their fate is dependent on Democratic reaction toward them.

That is very much up in the air at this time. Democrat leaders are still pondering the matter.

But Senator Theodore Green (D-R.I.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has a solid Democratic vote there for the pact. He strongly favors it, and has lined up a decisive majority for it in the Committee.

While supporting the "atoms-for-peace" treaty, Green is advising Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex., it should not be taken up in the Senate unless ratification is assured. Green is urging that on the ground it would adversely affect world opinion toward the U.S. for the Senate to reject the pact.

Russia and four of the satellites already have ratified it.

Waring To Feature Two New Stars

WHEN FRED Waring and the Pennsylvanias make an appearance at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium Wednesday night, May 29, audiences will enjoy the first-hand opportunity of meeting two of Waring's latest and extremely talented singing discoveries.

As in recent years, when Waring introduced countless numbers of the American public to Tommy Leonetti, who has since been tapped to appear as a regular on TV's "Your Hit Parade" this coming season, Fred, once again, holds equally high confidence for the futures of Glory Allyn and Stewart Rose.

Auburn haired Glory Allyn proudly joins the Pennsylvanians after numerous network television appearances including "Godfrey's Talent Scouts" and the "Ruggles of Redgap" spectacular. She has also gained valuable experience and recognition as featured vocalist with the Wayne King dance band.

Veteran

Stewart Rose, who, while in the Army, also became an alumni of the "Godfrey Show," has appeared on Art Linkletter's program and Arlene Francis' "Soldiers on Parade". Since his discharge, he has appeared at some of the leading night spots in the country and has been signed to an RCA-Victor recording contract.

Both of these talented vocalists have had much experience in summer stock, playing top roles in "Brigadoon," "Oklahoma" and "The Merry Widow".

Two performances of the Waring musical variety show, "Musicade," will be presented here next Wednesday night—at 7 and 9:15. All tickets are reserved. They may be purchased at the YMCA, Flagler's Drug Store and the Wirt Miller Grocery in Stroudsburg and Kresge's Drug Store in East Stroudsburg.

50 Girls Attend Rally In Berwick

OVER 50 GIRLS and leaders of the Girl Guard and Sunbeam troops of the Salvation Army of East Stroudsburg went to Berwick for the Divisional Rally on Saturday. The Girl Guard leaders attending were Guard leader Mrs. John Stoddard, Chaplain, Mrs. Harold Van Why, Instructors Elaine Kresge and Lucy Counterman. Sunbeam leaders were Mrs. Clarence Hineline, Instructors Shirley Counterman and Malvena Schouppe.

Leaders unable to attend because of illness were Mrs. Edward Rickley, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Edward Reinheimer.

At the rally a fashion show was held with one girl from each Girl Guard troop representing a different country. Patrol Leader Eleanore Counterman modeled the American Indian costume made by Mrs. Harold Van Why. Members of each troop participated in the test work relays.

Camping Expert

Mrs. Major John Van Gould, a camping expert, instructed the girls how to make a "lean-to" for overnight sleeping. Also her able staff demonstrated the various kinds of fires.

The Sunbeam troops presented a Garden pantomime with one girl from each troop participating. Miss Madelyn Sargent, East Stroudsburg, representing the Aster flower, won first prize. Mrs. Captain Charles Baker was the narrator for the pantomime.

Also included in the honors given to East Stroudsburg, were the prizes given to Miss Cheryl Van Why, who took first prize in Girl Guard First-Aid, and Miss Connie Fox, for the first prize for Sunbeam First-Aid. Mrs. Clayton Kulp, wife of the burgess of Berwick, headed the list of judges.

Around 350 girls were expected to attend, but the actual enrollment was 619. One of the largest delegations which came was Altoona with 63 girls and leaders.

County Planning Commission Sets Meeting

MONROE COUNTY Planning Commission has invited a well-known planning consultant to meet with its members and the county commissioners at 7:30 p.m., June 12 at the courthouse in Stroudsburg.

Planning Commission chairman George T. Robinson said the invitation has been sent to Clifton L. Rodgers, a planning consultant from Beaver Falls, who has offices in Harrisburg and developed the Coolbaugh Township plan.

Explaining that the meeting was purely an exploratory session, Robinson said that the consultant will be asked to explain the scope of the whole function of a planning commission.

He will also be asked to approximate the cost of getting a county planning program formulated, and for keeping it in effect. Further, he will be asked to outline possible sources of state and Federal aid.

The county planning commission was established late in 1955. The June 12 meeting, Robinson noted, will be held in an effect to get the local programs "off the ground."

WAITIN' FOR THE VOTE TO COME IN—But most of the votes failed to show. That was pretty much the story yesterday in Monroe County's primary election. There were plenty of posts to be filled on party tickets but not many "races." As a result, the public reacted with marked apathy to their voting privilege. This photo was taken in Ward Six, East Stroudsburg polling place where Florence Cramer, Erma Titus, Nora Staples and William R. Williams did the waiting. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Injured Shohola Resident Served With Salvation Army

THE ELDERLY SHOHOLA resident who was struck last Friday by a car in Milford is Major George Stark of the Salvation Army.

Major Stark's last appointment in Northeastern Pennsylvania was Shenandoah.

New Home

Major and Mrs. Stark have been retired for the past 10 years.

Two years ago their house burned to the ground and through the kindness of their friends another one was built. The Saturday before the accident the plumbing was just finished and the Starks visited Capt. and Mrs. Baker of the Salvation Army in East Stroudsburg to tell them about it.

Major Stark is in the St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis. He has a fractured hip and other injuries.

The case is still under investigation.

Stock Market Rise Reaches Sudden Halt

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—The stock market's journey into new highs for 1957 ground to at least a temporary halt today.

Oils, some aircrafts and other selected issues charged ahead late in the day and almost succeeded in pushing the average another step forward. But the rally came too late and the final statistics were on the downside.

For the most major divisions of the market, the day was a selective one as there seemed to be gainers and losers everywhere.

Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged off by 10 cents to $185.00 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities up 10 cents, enough to post a new 1957 high for this group.

Of 1,167 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 500 to 404. There were 57 new 1957 highs and 20 new lows.

Volume totaled 2,370,000 shares compared with 2,300,000 yesterday.

Among the 15 most active stocks however, gainers outnumbered losers by 10 to 5.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was the most active stock, up 1⅛ at 63 on 34,400 shares. Second was Atlas Corp., up ¼ at 10 on 30,700 shares. Third was Lukens Steel, up 1⅞ at 102⅜.

Lukens Steel was up as much as 3⅜ early in the day but subsided along with many other stocks.

Salvation Army Makes Annual Report

AN INDICATION of some of the activities of the Salvation Army unit in East Stroudsburg is found in the annual report released yesterday by Sr. Capt. and Mrs. Charles Baker, corps officers.

The report covers many phases of the Salvation Army's work among adult and youth groups, welfare activities, family service, Christmas assistance and transient services.

References are made to its religious worship services, character building activities for children, emergency welfare, visits to the county jail, giving used clothing and furniture to needy families, and counseling.

Financial

In its financial statement, the Salvation Army reports receipts of $9,500 from the Monroe County Community Chest and $10,434 from internal income.

Disbursements include property maintenance and local repairs, $1,356.73; supplies, utilities and services, $6,562.93; administration and salaries, $4,944.78; welfare, transient, family and seasonal, $1,794.48; program and activities, $5,322.94.

In its special activities, the Salvation Army unit sponsored seven adult groups with a membership of 152, held 354 group meetings with total attendance of 9,151; 141 street meetings with 1,954 attending; gave 778 hours of home visitation with total of 1,370 families visited and held 13 services at institutions.

Eleven young people's groups were supervised with a membership of 451. Attendance at 481 group meetings totaled 15,298. Forty delegates were sent to youth camp and 163 delegates to state rallies and conferences. Two local member students attended the Salvation Army School for Officers Training.

Capt. Baker's report noted that 27 families were given food, clothing, furniture, counseling and other services. Individuals in the families totaled 113.

Services

Christmas services follow: 109 (491 individuals) assisted; 707 toys distributed; four special programs and parties held for 322 young people, and 205 residents of local institutions given Sunshine Baskets.

In transient services, 77 individuals were assisted. This included meals, clothing, lodgings and other services.

"Where there is a need," Capt. Baker said, "the Salvation Army is anxious to meet that need. All it asks is the tools to do so be furnished.

"The people of Monroe County have been most generous in their giving so we have been meeting the needs of others for many years."

Special thanks were extended by Capt. and Mrs. Baker to the Salvation Army Advisory Board, the Community Chest, The Daily Record, Station WVPO, the churches, schools, other groups and organizations and to individuals "who have shown real interest in our work."

Easton Man Paroled In Massachusetts

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 21 (AP)—Filippo Mancuso, 68, formerly of Easton, Pa., convicted last May for a 30-year-old slaying, was paroled today from the Berkshire County House of Correction after serving half his term.

On May 7, 1956, he pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the June 1926 fatal shooting of Frank Litano, 44, father of six.

Mancuso was met at the prison gates by his son, Joseph. He said he will return to his Easton home where he lived almost 29 years under an assumed name — Michael Bertolino — a respected family man and factory worker.

Grand Jury

Pittsfield and Massachusetts State Police arrested Mancuso in Easton in November 1955. He had been indicted by a grand jury for first degree murder in 1926, but police couldn't find him.

In 1955 two of Litano's sons noticed the names of two of Mancuso's nephews on a pall bearers' list for a Pittsfield funeral. They notified police who traced Mancuso to Easton through the nephews.

County Commissioner John F. Shea said the parole is "a free bill, which allows him to return to his Pennsylvania home immediately."

Gap Couple At Funeral

Born in Germany, he spent most of his life in the United States. For the last 43 years, he lived in Dover, where he operated a meat market.

Besides Paul Zschack, he is survived by another brother, two sisters, two sons, and a daughter.

Firemen Answer Alpine Large

MOUNT POCONO — The Mount Pocono Fire Co. was called to Alpine Lodge Saturday when the building filled with smoke, as a new fire was started in the furnace.

The firemen discovered that the chimney was completed blocked by a squirrel which had found it to be the perfect place to build its nest. There was no fire damage, but some loss resulted due to the smoke. Fire Chief Ernest Bisbing and about 30 men answered the alarm.

Posts Available For Lutheran Ministers

BUCK HILL — A Lutheran clergyman said today there currently are some 500 vacant missions parishes in the United Lutheran Church in America and the prospects of filling them soon are dim.

The Rev. F. Eppling Reinartz of New York city said the four Lutheran seminaries would soon graduate 200 new ministers, leaving 300 parishes vacant.

Next year, Mr. Reinartz told the 210th annual convention of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, the resources of the foreign and American mission boards will be doubled. He asked where the needed personnel would be found for the increased work.

TO CHAPEL BY MULE

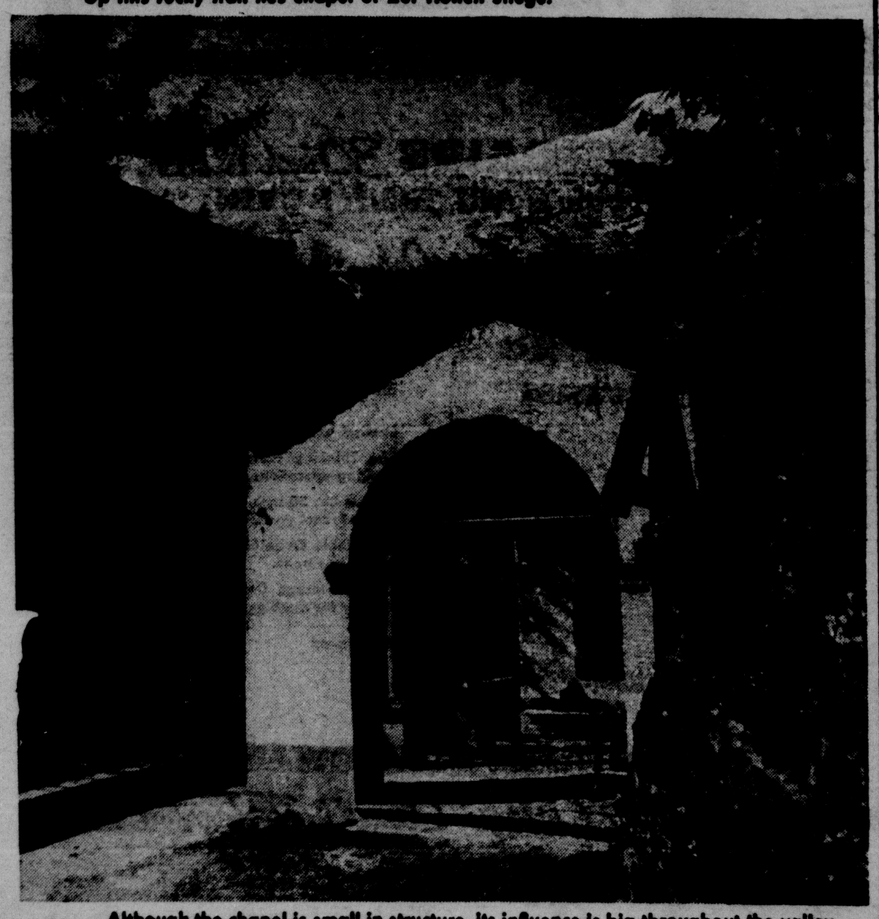
Up this rocky trail lies chapel of Zur Hohen Stiege.

VISITORS to the small chapel of Zur Hohen Stiege, near Saas-Fee, Switzerland, can claim they are closer to heaven than many churchgoers in other lands. That's because they are 5,900 feet above sea level. Until about 20 years ago, Saas-Fee was a five-hour mule ride from Stalden, on the Visp-Zermatt railway, but a modern highway now goes near there. From the village, one has to go on foot or by mule to reach the tiny place of worship. More than 350 years ago, the chapel was built for divine protection from avalanches. News spread that the religious statue in the chapel had miraculous powers and it became a favorite stopping-off place. In 1755, an organ was added. Ever since then, the chapel has never been without visitors. The villagers have built a flight of steps to the chapel. Yearly, on September 8th, on the feast of Our Lady's birth, the inhabitants of the Saas valley ascend in solemn procession to the chapel to implore God's divine blessings upon them.



Although the chapel is small in structure, its influence is big throughout the valley.

Sun May Go To Work

"THEY'RE doing something about the sun over in England.

Government officials have asked the London Imperial College of Science and Technology to design refrigerators, air conditioners and other home appliances that could run on solar energy. It's all part of the program of stepping up British exports, since such appliances wouldn't do much good in foggy Britain.

But there might be a big demand for them in places where sunshine is more reliable, the project chief explains.

Chimney Pots Feature Of House Design

CHIMNEY POTS are always a picturesque feature of the design of a house. They may be of many forms — simple pots for Colonial dwellings, or products of English Gothic, tudor or Georgian designs taken from old manor houses of England.

For the city house, suburban home or country estate, these pots are practical and appropriate. They add a final touch that gives the chimney a definitely finished appearance.

Measurements

The chimney pot at its ajex should not be less than two feet higher than the nearest peak roof and not less than three feet higher than the nearest flat roof. The flue of the pot should not be smaller than the chimney flue, although a larger flue is thoroughly practical.

A round pot can be used with a rectangular flue or vice versa.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO B-449

DESIGN B-449. This design is small in area but large in room sizes. A sneak-thru door in the bathroom eliminates the usual long hall. The bathroom doubles as a clean-up room and entrance to the central hall. Spacious bedrooms boast large wardrobe type closets and the coat closet has been placed in the central hall.

The kitchen is L-shaped with informal dining space, a broom closet and corner sink with corner windows that overlook the rear yard. The attached garage can be omitted very easily if lot is not wide enough. A "little different" look is achieved on the exterior by the use of wide V-joint vertical siding, plywood gable ends and casement type windows. Floor area is 952 square feet, cubage is 17,612 cubic feet (excluding garage.)

For further information about DESIGN B-449, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. In Canada, the Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, St. John, New Brunswick.

Wide Choice Of Materials For Cottages

SUMMER cottage owners have a wide choice of materials to use in finishing walls with the dry construction method—that is, without the introduction of water into the house, such as is necessary when plaster is used.

Many summer houses that are being fitted up, however, for year-round use are being plastered over insulating lath, gypsum lath or metal lath. Other owners prefer gypsum wallboard, which permits "dry" building, too.

For the owner who desires a paneled effect, large boards—up to four by 12 feet or even big enough to cover an entire wall with a ceiling of eight feet—can be used.

Available

These boards are available in the form of plywood, hardboard, composition board and wallboard.

Planks of insulating board, in natural finish or predecorated at the factory, offer many opportunities to the ingenious householder, since they can be run diagonally, vertically or horizontally. Many home owners prefer to use insulating-board plank with a hardboard or plywood wainscot.

Tiles, either natural color or factory predecorated, can be had in a wide range of sizes to suit rooms of most sizes.

Studies Big Help To Housewives

NEW medical studies to aid physically-handicapped housewives are developing techniques of benefit to fully able-bodied homemakers.

In a physical rehabilitation program conducted by a leading Eastern medical center, kitchens have been designed to reduce the amount of energy an ill or crippled woman has to spend in preparing meals.

Recommendations

Here are some of the recommendations resulting from the studies:

1. As many kitchen surfaces as possible should be of easily cleaned material.
2. The more the homemaker sits down to work, the more physical energy is conserved.
3. Height of work surfaces should be adjusted to the woman who will use them. These surfaces should be lower than standard for tiny women, higher for tall women.

Guard Against Air Bubbles While Applying Varnish Coat

BEFORE REFINISHING an old piece of furniture with varnish, it is wise to remember that one simple precaution will prevent the surface of the furniture from having a rough look. This is caused by the varnish drying and leaving many small air bubbles.

The air bubbles are caused by shaking the varnish in the can as it is carried home from the store. Unless varnish is allowed to settle and the air bubbles have time to work to the top of the can and escape, they are picked up by the brush and carried onto the freshly varnished surface.

Sometimes a dirty brush will give this trouble but the former is the more likely cause.

YOU CAN paint an average room yourself for as little as $10. If professional assistance is required, call on your paint dealer or contractor. He'll be glad to advise and help out.

Care Needed For Fixtures

THE LUSTROUS chromium plated finish on faucets, drain controls, showerheads, and other fittings in bathrooms, powder rooms, and kitchens may lose its original beauty because of improper care. The Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau advises that harsh abrasives or cleaners should not be used on chromium.

Regular cleaning with soap and water will keep chromium bright. After washing, chromium should be dried with a soft cloth.

Homeowners Satisfied With Bathrooms

A RECENT survey indicated that the average home owner was more content with his bathroom "as it is" than with any other room in the house.

When asked, however, what they would do with their bathrooms if money were no object—the floodgates were loosened for a corrent of ideas about novel bathrooms.

Equipment

Among the equipment earnestly desired for the dream bathroom were tubside telephones, built-in radios, book shelves, television sets, ash trays, reading lights, a receptacle near th esoapdish to set a highball glass, exercising devices and a chaise lounge covered with waterproof fabric to invite a post-bath nap.

Oen romantic respondent wanted the tub installed against a large picture window looking out upon a peaceful landscape — provided of course, privacy also could be had.

New Cabinets Double Space

A NEW "Mr. and Mrs. Cabinet" doubles the storage space in the bathroom medicine cabinet. Because most bathroom medicine cabinets are overtaxed for space, a manufacturer has introduced an over-size cabinet with a double door and ample mirror coverage for twin lavatories, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

The new cabinet has overhead fluorescent lighting and outlets.

Children's Aid Society Willing To Add Protective Service For Neglected Child

The addition of protective service to neglected childrne to the regular work of the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County and the resignation of Mrs. Jean Albert as executive secretary were the big stories to come out of the annual business meeting held yesterday at noon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Tribute To Mrs. Albert

Mrs. Albert, under whose direction, the agency has advanced in many fields during the past eight years, is leaving to join her husband whose work has taken him out of the community. A formal citation of merit for her contribution to the community and to the policy and practice of the agency was presented to Mrs. Albert by Detleff Hansen, and a gift of appreciation from the board members was presented by Mrs. Donald Gilpin, president.

Mrs. Albert in her annual report told of the 98 Monroe County children and their 35 families who were served by the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County, with an average monthly caseload of 72 children and their families. There were 55 children cared for in foster homes; eight in special schools and institutions; and 16 in their own homes where counselling and planning was given to children and parents.

Changing Needs

A change in the needs as well as the numbers of children needing the Children's Aid Society was noted by Mrs. Albert. In the early years of the agency, its wards were young children, needing principally physical care. Now the children are older, and their problems are often emotional ones. To handle emotional problems needs trained workers, Mrs. Albert said, in addition to loving foster home care.

Protective service, she explained, was studied during the year by a committee headed by Mrs. Frederick Jones at the request of the county commissioners. The recommendations of that committee have been approved by the board of directors.

The problems of the agency, as outlined by Mrs. Albert, are mainly financial with rising costs complicated by the fact that the agency serves both public and private needs and new state welfare reimbursement to county government agencies.

Compared, however, to the $5 a day it costs to keep a prisoner in jail, the cost of being disturbed children to secure and useful adulthood is a small one, Mrs. Albert said.

Miss Roberta Andrews, associate director of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania, also discussed the problem of rising costs of agency care. The public is always ready to help when they see the need of an individual child, she said, citing the newspaper story of a mother forced to place her children for adoption which brought a flood of response in a community which felt it could not afford such care.

Honor Life Members

The loss of contact between giver and recipient was also brought out by Leonard Randolph in his tribute to the four honorary life members of the Monroe County CAS, Mrs. Rufus Miller, Mrs. W. Dolby Palmer, Dr. Elmer Kuntz and Mrs. Frank Diebert. Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Diebert were present for the dinner.

As charter members, these women pioneered in the field of care for dependent children, Randolph said, and through their own efforts in raising funds and explaining the function of the agency made the task of the present directors much easier.

Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., chairman of the State Advisory Committee of the CAS of Pennsylvania, reported on the state meeting, celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of the state society, founded in 1882.

Mrs. Gilpin presided at the meeting with Mrs. T. Floyd Rhodes, first president of the board, giving the invocation. Re-elected as board members for three year terms were Mrs. Jesse Flory, Mrs. Donald Gilpin, Mrs. R. F. Jones, John R. Lesoine, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Mrs. Adolph Rake, Mrs. T. F. Rhodes and Mrs. Joseph Williams. Mrs. B. I. Fansler gave the report of the nominating committee.

What Is Protective Service?

Within Monroe county, there are neglected children whose welfare has been nobody's business. Most children live in homes where their physical and emotional needs are the prime concern of their parents. Some children who cannot live in their own homes are cared for in carefully chosen and supervised foster homes, whether placed there voluntarily by parents unable to maintain a home or, in cases of flagrant neglect, by court order.

In between the two extremes are children whose parents have so many physical and emotional problems of their own that the children are neglected in many ways. To close this gap in child care, the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society has authorized that the society assume the responsibility of protective service, requested by the county commissioners and approved by the court.

Such a protective service would be brought into play only after a valid complaint had been made, either by another agency or an individual outside of the family. It differs from family service in many ways.

Family counselling is inaugurated by the family itself, and is a voluntary thing. Protective service results only from an outside complaint of neglect, and if after investigation the charges are proved true, the society has the responsibility to see that the family works out those problems for the ultimate welfare of the child.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Miss Anrews in writing up an advertisement for a new executive secretary of the Monroe County Children's Aid Society for professional magazines added as an inducement "delightful and cooperative board".

She rather reluctantly deleted the "delightful" after a number of raised eyebrows indicated that it was hardly professional wording. But they really are delightful, most of them, that is.

One big exception yesterday was I. About the kindest term you can apply to me this week is "eccentric". The big build-up of the special mail-away edition of the paper, election night madness, and a big personal proposition has effectively disrupted any trace of order in my days—or nights.

As my son used to be fond of telling me when the pressure got too great: "Take it easy, Mother, you're spinning your wheels". Well, it's a wonder Mary Leister wasn't spinning her wheels yesterday. Her whole mad day started before she was up with the news that the big Airedale dog belonging to visiting twin grandchildren had been hit by a car and was in serious condition. It got worse when her Mother got sick.

And ended last night with the executive board of the County Federation of Women's Clubs coming for supper. Believe it or not, the guests found the twins peacefully eating their supper in their highchairs, and Mary, willing and able to be a gracious hostess.

As for me, I can only envy but never hope to emulate.

Presbyterian Aux. Meets At Hauser Home

Delaware Water Gap — With Mrs. Francis Drake presiding and Mrs. Harry Buzzard serving as secretary, the Presbyterian Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. George Hauser, Tuesday night.

Present were Mrs. Drake, Mrs. Buzzard, Mrs. George Hauser, Mrs. H. J. LaBar, Mrs. John Wilson Jr., Mrs. Russell Buzzard, Mrs. Guyton Kempter, Mrs. C. B. Rosenkrans, Mrs. Clifford Hauser, Mrs. William Glebe, and a guest, Miss Gladys Foster, of Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Rev. Luther Markin met with the group before their business meeting and told of their place in the church life. He asked for two members to be appointed to a Christian Education Committee formed by two representatives from each branch of church work; and to meet Sunday night at the church. Later, Mrs. Francis Drake and Mrs. H. J. LaBar were named to the committee.

Mrs. Harry Buzzard had charge of the devotional service. Mrs. John Wilson Jr., and Mrs. Herbert Baker were named to the church flower committee for the month; and Mrs. George Hauser, Mrs. M. E. Leffler and Mrs. Elam Gray were named to the nominating committee. The group voted to give $5 toward redecorating a room at Brainerd Center. Mrs. Hauser served refreshments.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Did you notice how many inspiring news stories there were in Sunday's paper?—the story of the well known author who gradually lost his sight ten years ago and now, after a decade of darkness, has regained it, thanks to what he considers a miracle worked by God; the story of the rescue of seven year old Benny Hooper from a well, by Sam Woodson, a negro, who describes himself humbly as "just a tool of God"; and the story, too, of Billy Graham's evangelistic miss'on in New York which is attracting crowds of persons numbering from 18,500 to 20,000 per evening. It was a pleasant change of pace to pick up the newspaper, and find something besides murder, gang warfare, divorce and scandal all over the front page—a timely way of setting us straight on human values. . . . The cosmetic department is due to receive a bill from me any day, for I've been conducting my personal crusade in favor of eye shadow. When applying shadow to the eyelids of the girls in the Pocono Community Chorus concert, I learned that most of them have never worn it and have considered it far too obvious for street wear. Particularly did the girls with glasses shy away from it. They even seemed surprised when I said, "I always wear it—especially when I have glasses on. Without it I'd appear to have no eyes at all." What's more the girls were delighted to see how easily my Helena Rubinstein eye-shadow stick could be applied. They had always associated eye shadow with pots of cream that didn't spread too easily and left ugly colored smudges on the fingertips. We know quite a few who said they were going to start wearing it now and would drop by to select a stick. Incidentally, even the men looked so handsome with the added touches of rouge and eye makeup, I don't know why we women don't campaign for more color on THEIR faces. But then, when it comes right down to it, we don't want the men to be too glamorous, do we?

May Smith, of our jewelry department, tells me she enjoyed Monday's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast, but that nothing anyone could say could possibly do justice to Evangelist Billy Graham. It seems he visited Pinebrook several years ago, and May heard him there. "He's a terrific young man," she said, "handsome and sincere. He's just wonderful." This is a feeling echoed by sophisticated Dorothy Kilgallen of the Hearst newspapers, who has been visiting with the Grahams in their home, and generally studying the man and his family at close range. . . . Here we are with Spring only an infant, and already a salesman of rubber wear is showing Carl Rohrbach a new line of boots, arctics, and overshoes. Of course, the way the weather is as I write this, winter may be just around the corner. . . . This is undoubtedly the weather for mink—if you own it. Or squirrel, muskrat, or even rabbit if you own that. I noticed that the best dressed of our Business and Professional Women the other evening were wearing wool suits or dresses and their fur capes or stoles. . . . Everyone in our store is much concerned over Tage Hellgren's three-month-old infant, who is hospitalized with pneumonia. Papa Tage is our Hoover salesman. . . . John Alexander, youngest son of the Holt Wyckoffs, was having a wonderful time trying out the scooters in our toy department last Saturday. "Hold it before it tips," he called to Mr. E. H., and when Mr. Wyckoff obliged, he immediately put both feet on the scooter and allowed himself to be taken for an effortless glide across the floor. That gleam of mischief in his eyes, is backed up by a keen head on his shoulders! . . . With the return of Manager J. L. Kerlin from New England, a number of other executives are off on a bus trip with the Wyckoffs to Jamestown. Harold Albert and wife, the Ruster sisters, and the Tommy Rinehart are just a few who are "happy on the way." . . . In the meantime, we expect Holt, Pearl and Bill Walters, and Doris and Bill Hinton home momentarily from Florida, the girls having won the trip for themselves and their husbands in a recent sales contest. . . . I notice that our housewares department is selling beautiful bowls for salad, pasta, spaghetti or chili at 5.98, and matching bean-or-stew pots at the same price. Also at 5.98 we carry lovely salad bowls with serving pieces and under-tray of flintwood. Nothing surpasses the beauty of summer hospitality, and we're all prepared for it at Wyckoff's.

'Country Music' Top Feature At Portland Show Tomorrow

PORTLAND — "Country music" takes over the stage of the local fire hall tomorrow night when the Portland firemen present a doubleheader attraction in Abbie Neal and Her Ranch Girls and Wayne Raney, stars of the World's Original WWVA Jamboree, Wheeling, W. Va.

Performance will be for the benefit of the local company's building fund. Curtain time is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Winner of a recent Arthur Godfrey "Talent Scouts" TV program, Abbie Neal and Her Ranch Girls are also heard on the coast-to-coast radio feature, "CBS Saturday Night Country Style" and on Admiral records.

Wayne Raney, known nationally as "the king of the harmonica," is another Jamboree and Country Style regular, whose recordings are heard on the Decca label. A veteran performer, Raney has appeared in many sections of the United States and Canada and is known particularly for the novelty effects he can produce from the common "mouth organ."

Chief William Pensyl has stated that the advance sale of tickets conducted by the firemen has been heavy and he advises those who plan to attend to come early to assure seating.

IT'S THAT time again. The period when East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg highs' athletic teams come to grips on the field of sports battle.

This latest rendition of the "Battle of the Boroughs" takes place at Gordon Giffels Field Friday night—under the lights. The participants will be Jerry Stulgaitis' Mountaineer nine and Jack Kist's Cavalier diamond representatives.

Record-wise Stroudsburg will go into the contest with the better record. At this writing, the Mountaineers own a 6-4 win and loss mark. Eastburg, on the other hand, is sporting a 3-8 record.

In their respective leagues—Lehigh Valley and Lehigh-Northampton—the Mountaineers and Cavaliers are about as close as Mike and Ike. Stroudsburg finished up thet LV campaign with a 3-4 log, while Eastburg closed out the L-N with a 3-5 ticket.

But as the man has repeatedly said in the past, "team records of these two rivals mean nothing when they renew battle."

And from our vantage point, we couldn't call the man a liar. For instance, last year, Stulgaitis bypassed all of his pitchers and came up with Ron (Super) Phillips to pitch the big one at Eastburg's Memorial Stadium. And Phillips, making his first start as a Mountaineer hurler, pitched the Stroudsburg to victory.

This year it could be the same way, although, we doubt that either Kist or Stulgaitis will toss an untested moundsman at each other.

In Eastburg, it could be one of three pitchers to get the nod, even if some of them saw action yesterday at Wilson. After all the man also said, "you can't save them for next year. This is the big one and you've got to win it now."

But getting away from the man, the Cavaliers will have ready Curt Hickman, Charley Lupin and Evan Reese. Hickman has been Eastburg's winningest pitcher this year. He has tagged two of the three wins picked up by Kist's proteges. Reese is the owner of the other triumph.

One or all of this North Courtland St. threesome is capable of coming up with the big game. Each at times has shown better than average twirtling ability. But as capable as they are of stopping Stroudsburg, so are the Mountaineer batsmen just as adept in taking victory away from them.

Stroudsburg, for the most part, has been depending on two hurlers to carry the mound load this year. Although Stulgaitis has three extra chuckers in reserve, it has been Phillips and Jimmy Snyder this season.

Snyder has been the most effective West Main Street twirler. However, Phillips has drawn the assignment whenever Stulgaitis' boys came up against the league leaders in the Lehigh Valley League.

In back of this duo are Tom Gross, Byron Weaver and Frank (Buddy) Radler. Radler, probably the most consistent hitter on the team, has done some pitching this year, but only after leaving his outfield or first base position spots he has played regularly all season.

There is no doubt that either Phillips or Snyder will get the call. But Stulgaitis came up with a switch last year and could just as well dig around and come up with another surprise Friday at 8 p.m.

In offense, the two teams differ now as they did way back when the season started. When the Cavaliers kicked off the campaign they found hits hard to find. Stroudsburg, at the season's beginning, was running up a phenomenal 16-run per game average.

Of late, however, the Mountaineers have had their troubles getting a sustained attack going. Eastburg, it seems, have begun to find their hitting eyes.

Defensively, there is little to choose between the two rivals. Both are able to come up with miscues and each is capable of making the good play.

There are some of the facts, not all, but enough to hang any man who is crazy enough to wager on either team.

Cubs Top Giants On Miscues In 9th

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP)—Two infield errors, plus singles by Jack Littrell and Cal Neeman after two were out in the ninth gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the New York Giants today.

The Cubs' first Wrigley Field triumph in nine starts this season came after Stu Miller apparently had a two-hit victory in the bag on Willie Mays' theft of home in the sixth and Willie's No. 5 homer in the eighth for a 3-2 Giant lead.

Pocono Twp. Cinches Monroe Title

Frailey Hurls New Kings To 6th Straight

TANNERSVILLE — Pocono Twp. High clinched the 1957 championship in the Monroe Scholastic Baseball League yesterday by dumping Chestnuthill, 5-3, here.

PAUL FRAILEY, a righthander survived a rocky first inning in which the visitors scored all of their runs, and pitched Harry Werkheiser's new kings to its sixth straight triumph.

A pair of triples by Earl Everett and Altemose gave Chestnuthill a 3-0 edge at the top of the first frame. But Pocono came back with two in the second and went ahead with two more in the third. The Tannersville team added its final tally in the fourth.

Eliminated

The loss was Chestnuthill's third and eliminated them from the pennant race.

Frailey outhurled Frable to get the mound nod. The Pocono pitcher was touched for only five hits. Frable allowed seven.

Pocono has two more games to play and can still drop both of them and hold on to the crown.

Barrett HRs Turn Back Tobyhanna

CANADENSIS — Homers by Charley Harrison and Gordon DiFuria powered Barrett High to a 11-7 Monroe Scholastic League victory over Tobyhanna here yesterday.

Harrison, the big gun in the winners attack, also slapped out two doubles to lead his mates at the plate.

Clark and winning pitcher Reed Gravel also helped Barrett's cause with a pair of baseknocks each.

A nine-run fourth inning salted the game away for Barrett. Gravel went the route to pick up the mound verdict. It was Barrett's second in six league games. Tobyhanna has failed to triumph in five tries.

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Billy Pierce pitched a four-hitter and drove in one of Chicago's three runs in the sixth inning tonight as the league leading White Sox gained their first victory of the season over the New York Yankees, 3-1.

Pierce, mixing a puzzling curve and a masterfully controlled changeup with his fast ball, retired the last 16 batters he faced.

Klaus Errors Let Tribe In, 8-2

BOSTON, May 21 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians turned a four-error inning and Chico Carasquel's grand slam home run into an 8-2 victory over collapsing Boston today behind the seven-hit pitching of Early Wynn.

Shortstop Billy Klaus, demoted from second to seventh in the batting order for the game because of his plummeting .181 average, was the tragic figure in the Red Sox defeat—their seventh in the last 10.

Committing three of the four bobbles in the sixth, Klaus juggled Rocky Colavito's grounder to start the steamroller.

Zephyrs To Face Kids For Title

NORTHAMPTON and Whitehall will meet for the Lehigh Valley Baseball League championship this week. This was decided yesterday when the Konkrete Kids eliminated Palmerton, 6-1, in a playoff for the title.

Whitehall, Northampton and Palmerton had ended the regular LV season tied for first place.

Greene-Dreher Loses Out In Final Inning

NEWFOUNDLAND — Waymart High put over two runs in the top of the seventh and then halted a Greene-Dreher Sterling High rally in the final half to pull out a 3-2 victory over the Stags here yesterday.

The game went into the final inning knotted at 1-all before Waymart went ahead 3-1 and then suffered a one-run surge by the Stags to cinch the verdict.

Ed Thorpe bested Don Olsommer in the pitchers duel. The Stags' Olsommer, the losing hurler, had to have help from Bob Haag in the seventh to put out the Waymart fire.

Fans Dozen

Olsommer struck out 12 and walked three during his tenure on the mound. Thorpe touched for only four hits, fanned six, and passed two.

Weindland got two of the four Greene-Dreher hits, while Thorpe collected two of the five off Olsommer.

It was the Stags second straight loss after they had run up four consecutive wins.

Hurls 2-Hitter

Johnny Ryan hurled Barrett Rotary past its township rival, setting down the Lions with two hits. He also led his mates at the plate with two hits.

It's Official: ESSTC Nine Teachers King

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. — East Stroudsburg is the new champion of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Baseball Conference which closes its sixth consecutive season today.

Stroudsburg Piles Up 4,000 Vote

Russell L. Mervine

THE 43rd JUDICIAL District race on the Democratic ticket was won by Russell Mervine in yesterday's Primary election. The 43rd covers both Monroe and Pike Counties.

The Stroudsburg attorney, making his first try for political office, piled up 3,517 votes to 1,960 for incumbent Judge Fred W. Davis. Judge Davis had cross-filed on both tickets.

On the Republican side, Davis was given 2,688 in a relatively-mild turnout of GOP voters. There was little interest among GOP voters in the election since most posts on that ticket were uncontested.

Districts

Mervine led Davis in all Monroe County districts but two — Delaware Water Gap and Paradise Township — in the Democratic nomination race. His lead was established with early returns and did not diminish through the course of the night.

In Pike County, at 12:45 a.m., Mervine held a 417-181 lead over Davis. The court included 11 of the 14 districts.

Other results on the GOP ticket in the election were the following: For treasurer — Donald Dimmick, a newcomer, had 2,306 votes; for jury commissioner, Clair Learn, running without opposition, had 2,362 votes; for county surveyor, Guyton Kempter had 1,928 votes.

Bangor Strike Moves Into Court Today

BANGOR—After a spurt of violence over the weekend, the Blue Ridge Textile Co. strike moves into the calm atmosphere of Northampton County Courtroom this morning at 10.

In Easton President Judge William Barthold will take under consideration a company plea to ban picketing entirely from in front of the Blue Ridge plants in Bangor.

Yesterday at Easton Post Office a National Labor Relations Board examiner listened to opening testimony in hearings which will decide whether a unionization election will be held within the plant's employe ranks.

Testimony

Examiner Eugene M. Levine, Fourth Region of the Philadelphia NLRB District, heard testimony from the following yesterday:

R. Kenneth Ace, president of the Bangor Chamber of Commerce, who described his efforts to "settle" the strike and to act as "mediator" for the two opposing forces. Ace said he was "warned" by pickets not to get "mixed up in the controversy." After the warning, Ace said, he no longer attempted to act as arbiter.

Joseph Rader and Samuel Frost, local representatives of Textile Workers Union of America, and William H. Englander, assistant general counsel for TWUA national union, who said that the union did not represent the "majority" of Blue Ridge workers at the present time.

They said the union had merely offered its help to strikers in the eventual settlement of the strike.

An NLRB ruling on the proposed election should be made within 30 days after the hearing is completed.

English To Fill Beck's AFL-CIO Post

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—John F. English, No. 2 national officer of the Teamsters Union, was tapped today to fill Dave Beck's vacant chair in high AFL-CIO councils. He promptly revealed that Teamsters officials will soon consider ousting Beck as union president.

The union's Executive Board will hold a special meeting to consider Beck's status, he told a reporter.

English, 68-year old Teamsters general secretary treasurer and longtime foe of Beck within the union, was chosen earlier in the day to succeed Beck as an AFL-CIO vice president and Executive Council member.

Experts Fear Record Spending

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Despite congressional vows to cut the budget, House tax experts forecast today that federal spending in 1958 may soar more than a billion dollars above President Eisenhower's figure of $71,800,000,000.

Congressional budget cutters are aiming at a three or four billion dollar reduction in Eisenhower's appropriations requests for the new bookkeeping year starting July 1.

37 Perish As Tornado Strikes Kansas

KANSAS CITY, May 21 (AP) — A brick by brick search of shattered homes and stores was underway today for more possible victims of a radar - tracked tornado that killed at least 37 and injured more than 200 in a slash through Kansas City suburbs early last night.

The cautious hunt was ordered in the Ruskin Heights sub-division where the storm dealt its heaviest blow, crushing a busy shopping center and an estimated 100 homes, besides damaging hundreds of other residences.

The Kansas City Star estimated damage would range between 10 and 20 million dollars.

Authorities at mid-afternoon still were struggling to clarify casualty lists. An error in the coroner's office at one time jumped the total dead to 44, but this was revised within an hour.

Tabulation

The best available tabulation from all sources showed 31 dead in the various suburban areas of Jackson County, Mo., including the adjacent communities of Ruskin Heights and Hickman Mills; four at Spring Hill, Kan., and two at Ottawa, Kan.

While search went on for other victims in the Kansas City area tornadoes were reported to have caused an undetermined number of casualties and heavy property damage in southern and eastern Missouri areas, including Van Buren, Fremont, Squires, Cantwell, Desloge and near Columbia, Ill., south of St. Louis.

The detailed search of the ruins produced early results. The body of Mrs. Paul Guyll, 44, school nurse, was found crushed beneath a row of overturned lockers in the smashed high school building.

The tornado, with one main and several accompanying funnels, started its death-dealing at Ottawa. Advance warning had been given by the Kansas City Weather Bureau early in the afternoon that tornadoes were likely and when the first twister formed and began moving northeastward toward Kansas City, the bureau poured out a steady stream of radar tracking reports.

These bulletins were broadcast and telecast by Kansas City radio and TV stations along with advice on what precautions persons living in the projected path of the storm should take to insure safety.

Most of the metropolitan area was buffeted by rain, hail and wind with accompanying thunder and lihtning throughout the storm period.

Crazy

The main tornado veered crazily as it twisted out of the rolling eastern Kansas countryside. It swept up a farm house at Ottawa, Kan., some 70 miles southwest of Kansas City, killing two. It dipped into Spring Hill, Kan., killing four more persons, but swerved to the east of Olathe, Kan., and the Naval Air Station about 40 miles southwest of the downtown Kansas City area. It missed the heavily populated southwest suburban area around Overland Park and Fairway. Then it crossed into Missouri at Martin City, 15 miles due south of downtown Kansas City, at 136th street.

Leader Blasts Budget Cutting

HARRISBURG, May 21 (AP)—Gov. Leader today described Republican budget cutting as "reckless surgery on the bone, muscle and sinew of needed (state) services."

He called Republican plans to slice 94½ million dollars from his proposed $1,559,000,000 general fund budget an "irresponsible action."

In a statement the governor cautioned Republicans "a day of reckoning will come and the people of this Commonwealth will not forget the men of uneasy conscience who were responsible for this irresponsible action."

The Republican-controlled Joint Appropriations Committee detailed exactly where the ax will fall.

Bills carrying out the recommendations will be submitted tomorrow.

A record $1,107,000,000 general appropriations measure is also ready for consideration.

Doran Upsets Harris For Democratic Mayor Listing

Westbrook Tops Field For County Treasurer

J. NELSON Westbrook, the favorite to win the Democratic nomination for treasurer, came through yesterday with a 577-vote lead over Claude Metzgar.

Westbrook had 2,738 votes as the final unofficial tally was completed. Metzgar was the runner-up with 2,161 votes. Running a poor third was Stroudsburg Dr. William Andrew with a total of 282 votes.

For Westbrook it was an initial try at public office and a thumping success. Metzgar, longtime public office-holder and party supporter in Monroe county, was making a bid for return to the public scene.

J. Nelson Westbrook

Metzgar was formerly county prothonotary and clerk of courts and is now affiliated with the local shed of the State Highways Department.

Westbrook led Metzgar in 19 of the county's 35 districts. He lost some of his lead in the mountain districts and other outlying areas where Metzgar, through long experience in local campaigning, is better known.

But the lead the Stroudsburg funeral director had drawn from boroughs and surrounding areas was more than enough to keep his strength showing.

Final Tabulation

Security Council Prods Egypt To Clear Up Quickly Questions On Operation Of Suez Canal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 21 (AP)—The Security Council president today prodded Egypt to clear up as quickly as possible all questions on operation of the Suez Canal. The Council put the controversial issue on the shelf pending developments.

These developments came as the French National Assembly in Paris dealt a surprise defeat to the government of Premier Guy Mollet and indirectly undermined the French position here.

The passing of the Mollet regime deprived Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of any power to deal further with issues here except as a lame-duck acting minister.

Pineau had flown here to press for Council action to force Egypt to yield on its unilateral operation of the Suez Canal. He flew to Washington last night for a conference today with Secretary of State Dulles and back here for the Council windup.

Without taking a vote, the Council gave assent to a statement by its president, U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge. Lodge's summary wound up a two-day debate touched off by the French demand or new negotiations for a permanent settlement of the canal question.

Just before making his summary statement, Lodge made it clear the United States had refused to go along with the French proposal for new negotiations. He told the Council, as U. S. Delegate, that the United States continues to hold the view that a declaration made by Egypt on April 24 does not entirely meet the Council requirements but the United States still is willing to give it a trial.

Pineau assailed the Cairo declaration in a speech to the Council yesterday and called on the Council to request new negotiations for a settlement on a basis of six principles approved unanimously by the Council last Oct. 13.

Eisenhower Pictures Aid Foes As Blind

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — President Eisenhower, in the fightingest speech of his second term, tonight pictured foes of foreign aid as blind and reckless gamblers, whose advice could lead to "disaster"—the loss of peace and freedom.

The President went to bat for his $3,865,000,000 mutual security program in a speech prepared for delivery over nation-spanning television and radio.

As he has before in defending his budget, Eisenhower declared the "cost of peace is high in this atomic age."

"Yet the price of war is higher and is paid in different coin—with the lives of our youth and the devastation of our cities," Eisenhower said.

Congress

Obviously hitting at members of Congress who want to cut the foreign aid program, the President then went on to say:

"The road to this disaster could easily be paved with the good intentions of those blindly striving to save the money that must be spent as the price of peace."

Eisenhower, speaking from his White House office, added that "to try to save money at the risk of such damage" to the mutual security program "is neither conservative nor constructive." Then he declared:

"It is reckless.

"It could mean the loss of peace. It could mean the loss of freedom. It could mean the loss of both.

"I know that you would not wish your government to take such a reckless gamble.

Eisenhower's TV-radio talk was his second appeal of the day in behalf of his foreign aid program, already scaled down from the administration's original figure of $4,400,000,000.

The first was in a special message to Congress formally requesting $3,865,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But the odds appeared against the President's getting that much. The administration's foreign aid request usually is trimmed at the capitol, and the lawmakers are in a more economy minded mood than usual.

Sounding the same theme he did in his message to Congress, Eisenhower pictured the foreign aid program as "the most concrete and practical way how collective effort and collective security serve our national good." He added:

Attempt

"For our nation to try, completely alone, to counter the Communist military threat would be not only more hazardous strategy; it would also be far more costly. It would demand many billions of dollars more in defense expenditures.

"It would mean raising the draft calls throughout our land. It would mean more of our sons in uniform. It would mean longer service for them."

The President, in his direct appeal to the people for support, repeated what he told Congress—that during the last seven years the United States has provided allies around the world some 17 billion dollars in direct military assistance. He also said anew that during that same period the defense budgets of America's allies have totaled some 107 billion dollars.

Fine's Court Bid Near Rejection

By The Associated Press

FORMER Republican Gov. John S. Fine failed Tuesday to make a successful political comeback in Pennsylvania's primary.

His seeming defeat was in a contest to win nomination to the Luzerne County Common Pleas Court, a contest which afforded the chief interest in an election that failed, generally, to attract the state's voters in any impressive numbers.

Whitenight Elected

DANVILLE, May 21 (AP) — Democrat Donald Whitenight was elected to the State House of Representatives today, regaining the seat he lost last November to the late John R. Quigg.

Incumbent Fails In Fight For Seventh Term

EDWARD DORAN scored a stunning "upset" defeat over Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris yesterday as final returns in the primary gave Doran 714 unofficial votes to 313 for Harris.

It was a crushing blow to the myth that Burgess Harris was an invincible political force in Stroudsburg. He had held the office of Chief Burgess for six terms and was seeking a seventh.

For most voters in The Stroudsburgs — and, surprisingly, in Monroe County's other districts — it was the major news of the day. Few political observers had been willing to predict defeat for Harris.

Although the burgess had become one of the most controversial figures in Stroudsburg's political history, his hold on the electorate was still believed to be too strong to crack.

Edward A. Doran

First Ward

When a first "unofficial" word-of-mouth report came in to Monroe County Court House it was from Stroudsburg's First Ward. That report showed Doran leading 134 to 38 votes for Harris.

Observers in the commissioner's office and in the hallway noted that "this one comes from Ed's own ward — he ought to pile up a lead there."

When the full unofficial returns were in, however, they showed the magnitude of Harris' defeat at the hands of a councilman who has kept up a running squabble with him during recent months on a variety of measures.

This was the unofficial tally by wards:

First Ward — Doran, 134; Harris, 38. Second Ward — Doran, 152; Harris, 77. Third Ward — Doran, 151; Harris, 88. Fourth Ward — Doran, 103; Harris, 52. Fifth Ward — Doran, 174; Harris, 58.

In the Republican "race" there was no opposition. Dr. Samuel Sullivan ran without opposition and piled up 394 votes.

Doran also racked up some votes as write-ins on the Republican ticket, when unofficial tallies came in. These showed that he had a total of 34 write-in votes on that ticket at least.

Full and complete write-in totals will not be known until after the official vote count is made.

Harris also received one GOP write-in in the Second Ward.

Write-Ins Successful

A LAST-MINUTE write-in and sticker campaign by Robert Harvey, Stroud Township, for the Democratic school director nomination paid off with 49 write-ins on his own ticket and 10 on the Republican ticket yesterday.

Harvey thus earned the right to oppose incumbent Stroud Union School Board member Loring Cramer in the November election.

Write-in totals were not competed for all three Stroud districts. But in the two in which they were counted Harvey secured a spot on the general election ballot. His candidacy was not officially announced until this past weekend.

Position With State

HARRISBURG, May 21 (AP)—Dr. John F. Adams, Temple University professor, will become executive director of the state Bureau of Employment Security, effective June 13.

Turnout At County Polls Proves Light

FOR AN ELECTION day it was one of the dullest within memory.

Old-timers who sat around outside election houses yesterday were agreed on that one central point.

Statistics bore them out. When the polls closed officially at 9 p. m. only about 5,181 or 49 per cent of the 10,567 registered Democrats had voted in by far the larger of the two party turnouts.

Republicans made a much smaller dent in their registration. Figures showed that only 2,688 or 36 per cent of the 7,345 registered GOP voters went to the polls.

Races

Interest in the primary was lowered considerably by a lack of races in most areas. This was especially true on the Republican side of the ledger where there were no contests at all for the major county offices up for nomination.

There were races in all the Democratic slots—for judge, treasurer, coroner and jury commissioner.

But most of the interest inspired in the election came from purely local races such as those for township supervisor posts or school director nominations in townships and boroughs.

In Northern Hamilton's voting district at 10:58 yesterday morning only 31 persons had voted. Of that total 25 were Democrats.

The story was basically the same throughout the county. Voting registrars and election officials waited patiently at polling places.

Most of the time they spent there was devoted to discussion of the weather, community affairs and "why people don't vote" in primaries.

Mollet Resigns As French Premier After Losing Vote

PARIS, May 21 (AP) — Socialist Premier Guy Mollet handed in his resignation tonight after losing a confidence vote in the National Assembly.

President Rene Coty seized on a technical point to delay acceptance. Coty said he will consult with Assembly leaders and decide tomorrow whether to ask Mollet to stay on.

Coty's point was that Mollet's opposition failed to muster an absolute majority — currently 298 votes—as required under the constitution to force a premier to quit.

Program

Beaten on his "beat the rebel" fiscal program of belt tightening, Mollet said he will insist on quitting.

Emerging from Elysee Palace, Mollet told reporters that if Coty asks him to continue he will refuse.

The President, preparing for a state visit to Washington, faces the bleak task of trying to replace the Mollet regime that had proved to be the most stable France has had in postwar years.

Mollet and his cabinet were applauded as they filed out of the Assembly that had turned them out of office.

Trogner Predicts Unfavorable Bypass Reaction

By Paul Carlson

CITIZENS BYPASS Committee of Monroe County last night predicted that public reaction would be unfavorable to the state-recommended alignment because advocates have rejected an invitation to debate the issue tomorrow night.

At the same time, the citizens committee announced that it has invited Gen. George Richards, deputy secretary of highways, to discuss the matter since three local advocates have turned down the group's bid.

Contacted in Harrisburg last night, Gen. Richards declined to immediately say whether he could attend the session. However, he indicated he will give his answer in a letter to Arthur M. Trogner, chairman of the citizens committee.

Meanwhile, Trogner has replied to a letter from Charles J Marsh, president of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. and Jackson L. Kerlin, chairman of the businessmen's traffic parking committee.

Kerlin informed the committee he would not attend its meeting at East Stroudsburg Junior High School tomorrow, and questioned the need of another public meeting.

Earlier, former Rep. Van D. Yetter, Jr., and Horace G. Heller, general manager of The Daily Record, indicated they would not be in attendance, and questioned the bypass committee's reference that they were "proponents" of the state-recommended Plan A.

All three men contended that the real proponents of Plan A were the State Highways Department and the consulting firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter.

However, in reply to this, Trogner noted that "careful examination of the word 'proponent' in Merrian Webster's large international dictionary will disclose that the definition ends with the words, 'and hence an advocate.'

"We do not believe that you, Van Yetter, or Heller will deny that you are advocates of Plan A," Trogner said in a written reply to Kerlin.

The whole course of procedure of the proponents (and hence advocates) of Plan A has been to jam it through as quickly as possible before too many people had the chance to learn what it was all about," the letter stated.

"Anyone who is brash enough to ask for facts is labeled 'a small, selfish group,' it continued. "Yet it is this 'small selfish group' which is willing and anxious to explain and defend its position and to let the public at large, who are the ones to pay the bill, judge for themselves."

The text of Trogner's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Kerlin:

Your letter of May 20 just received. It is too bad that your absence from town delayed your receipt of our letter of May 14.

Our committee notes with regret your refusal to join in bringing both sides of this tremendously important civic problem before the public where everybody will have full opportunity to hear all the details and form intelligent opinions for themselves as to what should be done.

We notice that you have adopted the same position as Mr. Horace Heller in stating that you are not a "proponent" of Plan "A" since you did not "propose" it, but that that was done by the famous firm of Consulting Engineers. Careful examination of the definition of the word "proponent" in the Merriam Webster's large International dictionary will disclose that the definition ends with the words, "and hence an advocate." We do not believe that either yourself, Van Yetter, or Heller will deny that you are "advocates" of Plan "A."

The meeting on February 13 you refer to as being sponsored by the Stroudsburg Business Men's Assn. was not an open public meeting. It was by invitation only and in fact our committee was not even invited until we forced the issue. Is it your contention that a matter of such economic and civic importance to ALL the people of Monroe County should be decided by just a few of the elite? Is it the idea that only a few should know a little about the details and the people at large should "take it and like it?"

The only argument presented by the advocates of Plan "A" is that it is proposed by this famous firm of engineers, yet General Richards himself has admitted that the only excuse for running such a highway right through both Boroughs was because it was intended to carry an equal amount of local interboro traffic. The absurdity of this argument is apparent to any one who tries to picture employees in the plants all located in the Northern end of East Stroudsburg winding their way down to the gates of Prospect Cemetery to get on this road to travel over to Broad Street in Souh Stroudsburg and thence up Fifth Street to their homes up on the hill and in the Clearview Section.

The whole course of procedure of the proponents (and hence advocates) of Plan "A" has been to jam it through as quickly as possible before too many people had the chance to learn what it is all about. Anybody who is brash enough to ask for facts is labeled "a small selfish group." Yet it is this "small selfish group" which is willing and anxious to explain and defend its position and to let the public at large, who are the ones to pay the bill, judge for themselves.

As to the nine Civic, Municipal, and Business Organizations that you state have formally approved this route, we know that there is not one of these organizations which have had all the implications and details of this route explained to them. Most of them are on record because they were pressured into action (with no more details than a line on the map) with the argument that they should take this or get nothing. Even the action of your Business Men's Assn., which you refer to, was taken with only nine men present and even then was not unanimous. Our Committee asked your Association for the opportunity to explain the whole proposition to your membership but were turned down because you didn't have the time to listen.

We are sincerely sorry that the advocates of Plan "A" have not welcomed this opportunity to put their side of this issue before the Public since the Public reaction is undoubtedly going to be unfavorable to their cause.

Sincerely yours,
Citizens By-Pass Committee
of Monroe County
Arthur M. Trogner, Chairman

Flames Cause Damage At Keiper's Laundry Building

SEVERAL HUNDRED dollars damage was caused last night when fire of undetermined origin broke out in a truck in the garage of Keiper's Laundry, Inc., on Ninth St.

For a time, the fire threatened several other laundry trucks and the barn in which they were stored. However, Stroudsburg firefighters quickly removed the burning vehicle from the shed before it could cause other damage.

Pressure Hose

The blaze was then extinguished with a high pressure hose. The only other damage was caused to a batch of laundry inside the truck.

Loan Sought For Expansion Of Plant

Two matters bearing on Monroe County's industrial future came out of Monday's meeting of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

Of immediate import is a decision by the board of directors to apply for a $40,000 loan to finance the expansion of the Trumatic Machine & Tool Co. plant in East Stroudsburg.

The loan, if approved by the State Industrial Development Authority, will provide 30 per cent of the funds needed for new construction. The remaining 70 per cent is being furnished locally. This includes 20 per cent supplied by the Chamber.

Approval of the loan will mean the additional employment of between 25 and 35 male workers, according to the expansion plans as outlined.

Announcement of the loan application is significant from two angles. First, of course, it means new job opportunities will open up to upwards of 35 local area wage earners. The impact will be felt by several times that number, however, as the wages find their way into the economic community.

The other matter pertaining to the industrial picture has to do with establishment of an area technical school to train students in the trades.

The area coordinator of industrial education for the Public Instruction Department told Monday's meeting of the Chamber that present enrollment in county high schools makes it feasible to establish a technical school of 300 to 350 pupils.

Chief value of a trade school, as we see it, is to channel the best efforts of a certain group of students who are not academically inclined into the technical fields where their talents lie.

By making instruction available in the various trades, the technical school serves to encourage the young student who does not want to become a doctor, a teacher, a chemist or an engineer to complete his education in the area of endeavor where he expects to make his living.

We urge school boards to give serious consideration to the technical school idea by exploring all the advantages and disadvantages, and to come up with an answer predicated mainly on what is best for our future generations.

Warnings Of Russia Gaining Upper Hand

From two widely separated sources, the American people were warned the other day that the Russians are outdistancing them.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower told 200 scientists of the Western Hemisphere that "Russia is well ahead of the United States in training scientists."

He was speaking at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, an atomic research center. To add to the importance of his words, he was speaking as the personal representative of his brother, President Eisenhower.

Dr. Eisenhower put his finger on America's weak spot. We lack "skilled, distinguished teachers and advanced students of nuclear energy," he said. Russia is producing more scientists and engineers than we are.

As if to underscore the words of Dr. Eisenhower, Christopher Soames, England's parliamentary secretary of the Admiralty, told members of Parliament that "Russia now has the world's biggest submarine fleet."

He said the Kremlin operates 500 underwater craft—"half of them reportedly built for long-range operations."

Dr. Eisenhower and Secretary Soames point the same direction. They are warning us that we need to increase our emphasis on progress in scientific fields or take second place to Russia.

Letters To The Editor

Fisherman Doesn't Mind Paying Higher Fee If He Can Have Guarantee Of More Trout

East Stroudsburg

J. F. Hill, Editor
Daily Record
Dear Mr. Hill:

I see by the papers where the proposed bill to raise the cost of fishing licenses to $4 from its present rate of $2.50 has been buried in a State House committee, where it is likely to die.

I don't object to paying $4 for a license to fish—that is, if I have some hopes of catching some fish. But I resent paying even $2.50 for the privilege of wading in the streams.

The first day of the season was too cold for good fishing this year. But I was lucky, as it turned out. I caught two trout that day. About a week later, I caught another trout. But that's the limit of my success, despite frequent trips to some of our favorite trout streams.

I thought perhaps my skill as a fisherman was slipping but I find plenty of others who haven't had much more luck than I have had.

One trouble we have run into is this. Too many choice fishing locations are privately owned by clubs and individuals, and are posted against us common folks. That means the mass of fishermen are to be found congregated in the best of the unposted spots. So you can see it doesn't take long for all the trout that are in the streams to be fished out within a short time.

The Poconos have many miles of fine trout streams. Our people are more fishing-minded than are the people in lots of other places. Besides, we attract many visitors who like to fish. But what good is it if there are no trout left in the stream along about this time each year? What are we supposed to do for the rest of the season.

Of course, we can always join a private club or buy ourselves a piece of property along some trout stream. That's if we can afford it. Even if we wanted to join a club, that wouldn't always be possible because some of them are not taking on new members. They seem to be filled with fishermen who, like me and others I know, got tired of staking out a claim along a public stream every time they wanted to go fishing.

Not that I mind associating with other fishermen. It's just that I don't like to spend so much time untangling my fishing line every time it comes into contract with someone else's.

Futile Daydreaming Was Her Big Problem

By Anne Heywood

Most personality characteristics are two-edged swords. If they are used productively, they can make you enormously successful and happy; used unproductively, they can keep you an unhappy failure.

This is truest of all, it seems to me, when it comes to the quality known as imagination.

Theresa is an example that I will never forget. I first met Theresa a couple of years ago, when she was an unhappy secretary, living in a kind of borderland between reality and unreality. Theresa's trouble, to put it mildly, was that she day-dreamed all the time.

Hated Her Job

"I can't help it," she told me, when we were discussing a career change. "I hate my job, and it bores me, but I haven't any qualifications for advancing. I haven't many friends and I have already done everything you can do to fix up a furnished room. So I just sit by the hour, knitting and listening to music on the radio, and daydreaming about the day I'll be married, or have a fablous career, be wealthy and famous."

Here was a girl letting her imagination drain her energy, so that she was unable to make a single step toward getting a better job, a better social life or both.

Train Imagination

I suggested that she try to train her imagination to be her friend instead of her enemy. I tried to get her to get out more often. I suggested that she think about making some kind of knitted product that she could sell.

After all, if she was going to spend all that time knitting, anyway, she might as well make some money at it.

It wasn't easy, but she did begin to go out and browse around the knit shops and the art needlework departments of her local stores. She became quite interested in it, as a matter of fact, and one day announced that she could do every bit as well as a lot of them. Still, of course, the habit of daydreaming was a hard one to break.

Dreams Up Ideas

"But now," she told me, "I try to switch my mind. When I find myself up to the old tricks, I try to pull my mind back to my knitting and train my imagination to dream up some accessory."

Eventually, Theresa came up with a cute toy, which a shop in her town is selling.

She is still in her boring job, but she is spending her evenings and weekends with her toy-production and making nice extra money. Eventually she'll be able to have a little home business of her own and then, perhaps, some of her dreams can come true. But her imagination was allowed to run wild for so long, that getting it trained will take time.

Sometimes a good, high-handed philosophical book will help you break the bad, intellectual habits you're in. I'll be glad to send you a list of good ones if you'll send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper.

Not long ago, the editors of the "Farmer-Stockman" printed a picture of a deserted farmhouse in a desolate, sandswept field, then offered a prize for the best hundred-word essay on the disastrous effects of land erosion. A bright Indian lad from Oklahoma bagged the trophy with this graphic contribution:

"Picture show why white man crazy. Cut down trees. Make too big teepee. Plow hill, water wash. Wind blow soil. Grass gone. Door gone. Window gone. Squaw gone. Whole place gone to hell. No pig. No corn. No pony.

Business Conditions Will Remain Good Rest Of 1957

Washington, May 21—The first returns are in, and they are much brighter than expected.

Business conditions will be sound and good the remainder of this year.

That is the overall conclusion of a detailed survey just completed by staff experts of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Enonomic Report, headed by Rep. Wright Patman (D., Tex.).

This eagerly-awaited study says it is now pretty definite there will be a "moderate rise" in the national economy in 1957.

The authoritative "Economic Indicator" bases this cheering forecast on three major factors: Further increases in employment, continued rise in personal income, new gains in production.

However, these positive forces are partly offset by two deterrents: Mounting prices, and consumer spending at a higher rate than the increase in individual income.

Also, agriculture continues the "softest spot" in the national economy.

The congressional analysts report a further drop in farmer income in the first quarter. It is put at $300,000,000 less than the growers got in the last quarter of 1956.

On the other hand, extensive public and business construction has more than counteracted the decline in home building due to tight money.

The Joint Committee's significant report will be published next week.

In the past, there have been partisan clashes among committeemen over such findings. There are no inside indications that will happen this time. The survey is primarily statistical, and raises no political issues.

The Score—The report stresses that government spending—federal, state and local—is playing a vtal role in the continued prosperity.

This view is strongly supported by the monthly review of the First National City Bank of New York. It particularly cites the importance of increased expenditures for state and local projects.

Says this highly-regarded economic report: "In 1955 consumer expenditures and home buying were features of the business recovery. Last year business capital investment made a notable upsurge. Now government spending is taking over the major role in business advance.

"Between the fourth quarter of last year and the first quarter of this, business spending for plant and equipment showed the smallest quarterly gain in two years. Government outlays, on the other hand, showed the largest rise in five years. This increase in government spending is divided between national security expenditures and state and local projects . . . which are expanding . . ."

The "pro" and "con" highlights of the Joint Committee's report are as follows:

Employment: "Continued increases are expected. Total now stands at 64,261,000 as compared to 63,865,000 in March."

Income: "Showed a moderate rise between the fourth quarter of 1956 and the first quarter of 1957 . . . This increase is expected to continue through the remainder of the year . . . Gross national product rose to $3 billion in the first quarter."

Spending: "Government purchases of goods and services rose to an all-time record high annual rate of $84.9 billion during first quarter. This compares with $82 billion in fourth quarter of 1956. The federal government's annual rate now is $49.8 billion, state and local governments $35 billion, and school districts and others $5.3 billion."

Business Expenditures: "Outlays for plant equipment indicate a continuing rise for this purpose throughout the first half of the year. Anticipated total for 1957 is 6.5 percent above 1956. Second quarter expenditures are indicated at $4 billion more than the same period last year."

Profits: "Corporate profits are holding near 1956 fourth quarter levels despite earlier predictions they would decline. Profits after taxes are $23.5 billion as compared to $23.6 billion for the fourth quarter of 1956, and $22.1 billion for the first quarter of 1956."

Personal Income: "Increased, after taxes, about $2 billion (annual rate) during the first quarter of 1957. Present annual rate is $295.4 billion as compared to $293.3 billion ofr last quarter of 1956."

Two major factors cited in the report are summed up as follows:

Consumer Expenditures: "Rose more than disposable income, which increased, after taxes, $2 billion, while consumer expenditures increased $4.1 billion. Consumer expenditures for first quarter of 1957 jumped to an annual rate of $275 billion, as compared to $270.9 billion for the fourth quarter last year, while disposable income, after taxes, increased to $295.4 billion from $293.3 billion for the same period."

Cost of Living: "Continuing to rise, after increasing throughout all of the last months of 1956. The cost of living index now stands at an all-time high of 118.9 as compared to 114.7 for a year ago."

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York—The stocky little man came out of the Manhattan rain into the peacefulness of mid-afternoon in the expensive little saloon called Danny's Hide-a-way, shook himself like a dog and looked around uncertainly. "I'm confused," he said. "I'm a little dizzy. This is quite a merry-go-round, isn't it?"

Buster Keaton

That it was.

The man's name was Buster Keaton and now, 10 years after, it had begun to mean something again to the American public. The movie people had bought and filmed his life story and now had sent him along to the east to help publicize the picture. To have reporters ask him morning, noon and night about his meteoric rise and fall over the years, was a little unsettling.

He looks like anyone's uncle now. Thicker around the middle than in the days when he made "The Cameraman" and "The Boat," but the melancholy face is much the same, with only eyeglasses added. We sat in a quiet corner and he ordered an orangeade and lighted a cigaret. His hands were a little unsteady. A lot has happened to Buster Keaton.

"It's funny," he said reflectively. "I'd just about dropped out of circulation before all this." He shook his head slowly. "I drank myself right out of pictures. I guess it was as simple as that." He didn't say it in a why-doesn't-someone-write-a-book-about - my tragic-life manner. He just said he'd hit the bottle too much and it had wrapped up his talented career.

New York has changed monstrously since Buster Keaton, back in World War I days—before he became a doughboy and spent seven months in France—was walking down Broadway one day and ran into a couple of acquaintances, one of them Fatty Arbuckle. Fatty had just signed to make movies. Buster had just signed to do the revue "The Passing Show" for the Shuberts.

"Listen," Arbuckle said, as they strolled along, "why don't you come over to the studio in 48th street tomorrow and do a bit in one of my pictures, to see if you like it?" So Buster Keaton did—and liked it so much that in a day or two he told the Shuberts he was passing up their revue for the films.

He grinned. "Only at the end of the week did I learn what kind of money I was making. tI was $40 a week," he said. "And the Shuberts had signed me for $300 for their show. However, it didn't seem to matter. I'd fallen in love with the movies—with the cameras, the rushes, the action, the slam-bang . . . with all of it."

For more than a decade, after that, the Keaton dead-pan was beloved by all America.

Waring To Feature Two New Stars

Stewart Rose

WHEN FRED Waring and the Pennsylvanias make an appearance at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium Wednesday night, May 29, audiences will enjoy the first-hand opportunity of meeting two of Waring's latest and extremely talented singing discoveries.

As in recent years, when Waring introduced countless numbers of the American public to Tommy Leonetti, who has since been tapped to appear as a regular on TV's "Your Hit Parade" this coming season, Fred, once again, holds equally high confidence for the futures of Glory Allyn and Stewart Rose.

Auburn haired Glory Allyn proudly joins the Pennsylvanians after numerous network television appearances including "Godfrey's Talent Scouts" and the "Ruggles of Redgap" spectacular. She has also gained valuable experience and recognition as featured vocalist with the Wayne King dance band.

Veteran

Stewart Rose, who, while in the Army, also became an alumni of the "Godfrey Show," has appeared on Art Linkletter's program and Arlene Francis' "Soldiers on Parade". Since his discharge, he has appeared at some of the leading night spots in the country and has been signed to an RCA-Victor recording contract.

Both of these talented vocalists have had much experience in summer stock, playing top roles in "Brigadoon," "Oklahoma" and "The Merry Widow".

Two performances of the Waring musical variety show, "Musicade," will be presented here next Wednesday night—at 7 and 9:15. All tickets are reserved. They may be purchased at the YMCA, Flagler's Drug Store and the Wirt Miller Grocery in Stroudsburg and Kresge's Drug Store in East Stroudsburg.

Allen Feels Ike To Win Ratification

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, May 21—President Eisenhower will win the first crucial round in the touch-and-go battle for Senate ratification of the "atoms-for-peace" treaty.

The Foreign Relations Committee will definitely approve this pact.

That will clear the way for early Senate consideration of the key underlying issue of whether the U.S. shall become a member of the International Atomic Energy Agency created by the treaty.

The outcome of the Senate fight is still conjectural.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland, Calif., Senator John Bricker (R-Ohio) and others will offer major reservations. Their fate is dependent on Democratic reaction toward them.

That is very much up in the air at this time. Democrat leaders are still pondering the matter.

But Senator Theodore Green (D-R.I.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has a solid Democratic vote there for the pact. He strongly favors it, and has lined up a decisive majority for it in the Committee.

While supporting the "atoms-for-peace" treaty, Green is advising Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex., it should not be taken up in the Senate unless ratification is assured. Green is urging that on the ground it would adversely affect world opinion toward the U.S. for the Senate to reject the pact.

Russia and four of the satellites already have ratified it.

TENTATIVE approval has been given by the House Appropriations Committee in Harrisburg to a measure which would allocate $21 million to 189 state-aided hospitals, including $90,000 to the Monroe County General Hospital, during the next two years.

The figure compares with $22,213,400 appropriated to the private community hospitals in the past two years to care for charity patients at the rate of $9 a day.

County Planning Commission Sets Meeting

MONROE COUNTY Planning Commission has invited a well-known planning consultant to meet with its members and the county commissioners at 7:30 p.m., June 12 at the courthouse in Stroudsburg.

Planning Commission chairman George T. Robinson said the invitation has been sent to Clifton L. Rodgers, a planning consultant from Beaver Falls, who has offices in Harrisburg and developed the Coolbaugh Township plan.

Explaining that the meeting was purely an exploratory session, Robinson said that the consultant will be asked to explain the scope of the whole function of a planning commission.

He will also be asked to approximate the cost of getting a county planning program formulated, and for keeping it in effect. Further, he will be asked to outline possible sources of state and Federal aid.

The county planning commission was established late in 1955. The June 12 meeting, Robinson noted, will be held in an effect to get the local programs "off the ground."

WAITIN' FOR THE VOTE TO COME IN—But most of the votes failed to show. That was pretty much the story yesterday in Monroe County's primary election. There were plenty of posts to be filled on party tickets but not many "races." As a result, the public reacted with marked apathy to their voting privilege. This photo was taken in Ward Six, East Stroudsburg polling place where Florence Cramer, Erma Titus, Nora Staples and William R. Williams did the waiting. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Injured Shohola Resident Served With Salvation Army

THE ELDERLY SHOHOLA resident who was struck last Friday by a car in Milford is Major George Stark of the Salvation Army.

Major Stark's last appointment in Northeastern Pennsylvania was Shenandoah.

New Home

Major and Mrs. Stark have been retired for the past 10 years.

Two years ago their house burned to the ground and through the kindness of their friends another one was built. The Saturday before the accident the plumbing was just finished and the Starks visited Capt. and Mrs. Baker of the Salvation Army in East Stroudsburg to tell them about it.

Major Stark is in the St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis. He has a fractured hip and other injuries.

The case is still under investigation.

Stock Market Rise Reaches Sudden Halt

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—The stock market's journey into new highs for 1957 ground to at least a temporary halt today.

Oils, some aircrafts and other selected issues charged ahead late in the day and almost succeeded in pushing the average another step forward. But the rally came too late and the final statistics were on the downside.

For the most major divisions of the market, the day was a selective one as there seemed to be gainers and losers everywhere.

Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged off by 10 cents to $185.00 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities up 10 cents, enough to post a new 1957 high for this group.

Of 1,167 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 500 to 404. There were 57 new 1957 highs and 20 new lows.

Volume totaled 2,370,000 shares compared with 2,300,000 yesterday.

Among the 15 most active stocks however, gainers outnumbered losers by 10 to 5.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was the most active stock, up 1⅛ at 63 on 34,400 shares. Second was Atlas Corp., up ¼ at 10 on 30,700 shares. Third was Lukens Steel, up 1⅞ at 102⅜.

Lukens Steel was up as much as 3⅜ early in the day but subsided along with many other stocks.

Salvation Army Makes Annual Report

AN INDICATION of some of the activities of the Salvation Army unit in East Stroudsburg is found in the annual report released yesterday by Sr. Capt. and Mrs. Charles Baker, corps officers.

The report covers many phases of the Salvation Army's work among adult and youth groups, welfare activities, family service, Christmas assistance and transient services.

References are made to its religious worship services, character building activities for children, emergency welfare, visits to the county jail, giving used clothing and furniture to needy families, and counseling.

Financial

In its financial statement, the Salvation Army reports receipts of $9,500 from the Monroe County Community Chest and $10,434 from internal income.

Disbursements include property maintenance and local repairs, $1,356.73; supplies, utilities and services, $6,562.93; administration and salaries, $4,944.78; welfare, transient, family and seasonal, $1,794.48; program and activities, $5,322.94.

In its special activities, the Salvation Army unit sponsored seven adult groups with a membership of 152, held 354 group meetings with total attendance of 9,151; 141 street meetings with 1,954 attending; gave 778 hours of home visitation with total of 1,370 families visited and held 13 services at institutions.

Eleven young people's groups were supervised with a membership of 451. Attendance at 481 group meetings totaled 15,298. Forty delegates were sent to youth camp and 163 delegates to state rallies and conferences. Two local member students attended the Salvation Army School for Officers Training.

Capt. Baker's report noted that 27 families were given food, clothing, furniture, counseling and other services. Individuals in the families totaled 113.

Services

Christmas services follow: 109 (491 individuals) assisted; 707 toys distributed; four special programs and parties held for 322 young people, and 205 residents of local institutions given Sunshine Baskets.

In transient services, 77 individuals were assisted. This included meals, clothing, lodgings and other services.

"Where there is a need," Capt. Baker said, "the Salvation Army is anxious to meet that need. All it asks is the tools to do so be furnished.

"The people of Monroe County have been most generous in their giving so we have been meeting the needs of others for many years."

Special thanks were extended by Capt. and Mrs. Baker to the Salvation Army Advisory Board, the Community Chest, The Daily Record, Station WVPO, the churches, schools, other groups and organizations and to individuals "who have shown real interest in our work."

M. P. Brong Services Held

FUNERAL services for the late Monroe P. Brong, Brodheadsville, former county auditor and West End community leader, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the Kresge Funeral Home.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiated. Interment was made in Brodheadsville Cemetery. Pallbearers were Roy Altemose, Lewis Faulstick, Calvin Arnold, Ralph Van Buskirk, Howard Gregory and Harold Everitt, all members of the POS of A lodge.

Posts Available For Lutheran Ministers

BUCK HILL — A Lutheran clergyman said today there currently are some 500 vacant missions parishes in the United Lutheran Church in America and the prospects of filling them soon are dim.

The Rev. F. Epping Reinartz of New York city said the four Lutheran seminaries would soon graduate 200 new ministers, leaving 300 parishes vacant.

Next year, Mr. Reinartz told the 210th annual convention of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, the resources of the foreign and American mission boards will be doubled. He asked where the needed personnel would be found for the increased work.

Easton Man Paroled In Massachusetts

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 21 (AP)—Filippo Mancuso, 68, formerly of Easton, Pa., convicted last May for a 30-year-old slaying, was paroled today from the Berkshire County House of Correction after serving half his term.

On May 7, 1956, he pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the June 1926 fatal shooting of Frank Litano, 44, father of six.

Mancuso was met at the prison gates by his son, Joseph. He said he will return to his Easton home where he lived almost 29 years under an assumed name — Michael Bertolino — a respected family man and factory worker.

Grand Jury

Pittsfield and Massachusetts State Police arrested Mancuso in Easton in November 1955. He had been indicted by a grand jury for first degree murder in 1926, but police couldn't find him.

In 1955 two of Litano's sons noticed the names of two of Mancuso's nephews on a pall bearers' list for a Pittsfield funeral. They notified police who traced Mancuso to Easton through the nephews.

County Commissioner John F. Shea said the parole is "a free bill, which allows him to return to his Pennsylvania home immediately."

Gap Couple At Funeral

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zschack have left for Dover, N. J., where they will attend the funeral of Mr. Zschack's brother, Walter, 73, who will be buried there today.

Born in Germany, he spent most of his life in the United States. For the last 43 years, he lived in Dover, where he operated a meat market.

Besides Paul Zschack, he is survived by another brother, two sisters, two sons, and a daughter.

Firemen Answer Alpine Large

MOUNT POCONO — The Mount Pocono Fire Co. was called to Alpine Lodge Saturday when the building filled with smoke, as a new fire was started in the furnace.

The firemen discovered that the chimney was completed blocked by a squirrel which had found it to be the perfect place to build its nest. There was no fire damage, but some loss resulted due to the smoke. Fire Chief Ernest Bisbing and about 30 men answered the alarm.

THIS ROBIN'S A 'THRUSH'—Here's one robin, Thelma by name, who not only "sings like a bird," but even makes recordings. Her owner, Mrs. Marge Jackson of Albany, N. Y., noticed that Thelma liked to sing along with records, so she got a friend to set up his tape recorder. Thelma soon got over her mike fright.

PINATA FOR MAMIE—This charming study of Mamie Eisenhower shows her holding a papier-mache "pinata" bird at a Washington garden party. Bird, which is gift-filled, is broken open by children.

TO CHAPEL BY MULE

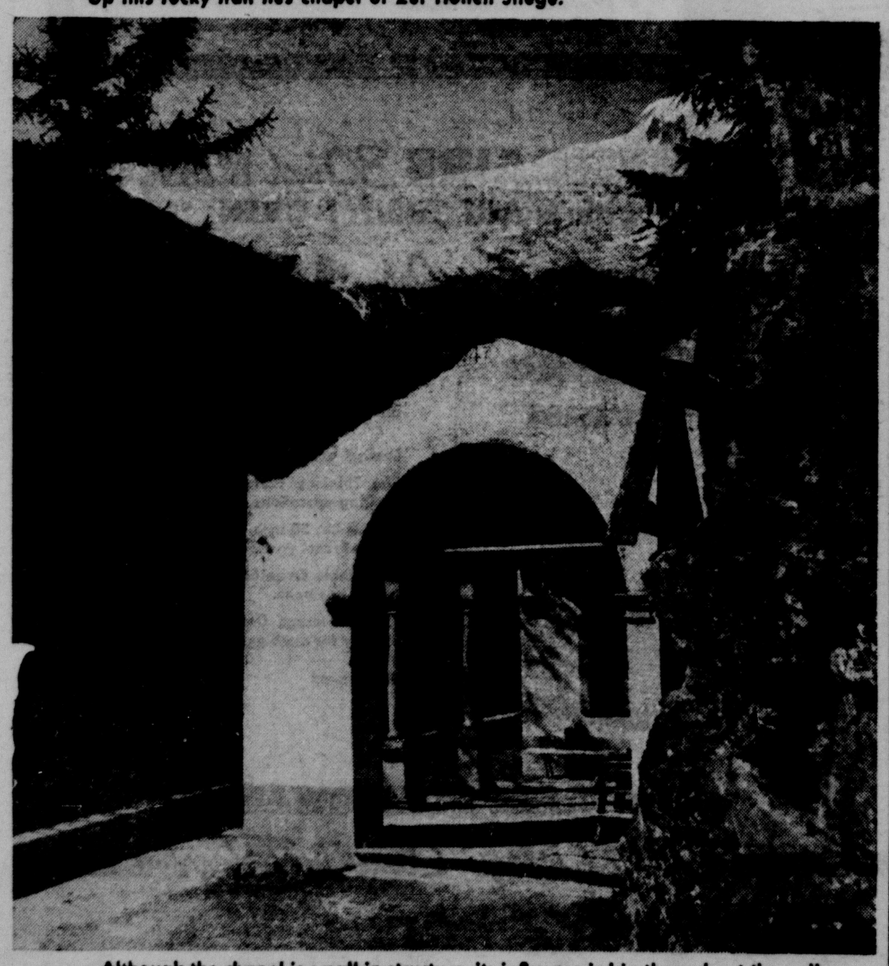
Up this rocky trail lies chapel of Zur Hohen Stiege.

VISITORS to the small chapel of Zur Hohen Stiege, near Saas-Fee, Switzerland, can claim they are closer to heaven than many churchgoers in other lands. That's because they are 5,900 feet above sea level. Until about 20 years ago, Saas-Fee was a five-hour mule ride from Stalden, on the Visp-Zermatt railway, but a modern highway now goes near there. From the village, one has to go on foot or by mule to reach the tiny place of worship. More than 350 years ago, the chapel was built for divine protection from avalanches. News spread that the religious statue in the chapel had miraculous powers and it became a favorite stopping-off place. In 1755, an organ was added. Ever since then, the chapel has never been without visitors. The villagers have built a flight of steps to the chapel. Yearly, on September 8th, on the feast of Our Lady's birth, the inhabitants of the Saas valley ascend in solemn procession to the chapel to implore God's divine blessings upon them.



Although the chapel is small in structure, its influence is big throughout the valley.

LATEST IN LUXURY—One of the biggest links in a chain of hotels across Venezuela is the Hotel Maracay in Maracay. The $14 million structure has 158 rooms, golf course, polo field, theater, swiming pool and a gasoline station.

A VANISHING TYPE—This historic block house at Fort Logan, in Montana, is probably the last remnant of this type of fort structure. It's a relic of Indian wars.

AT PEAK OF FASHION—From Paris come these two hair styles for summer. On the left is the gamin touch with flat and uneven fringe. One on the right is cut at various lengths and is molded rather than set to the head, falling in chiseled lines.

Sun May Go To Work

"THEY'RE doing something about the sun over in England.

Government officials have asked the London Imperial College of Science and Technology to design refrigerators, air conditioners and other home appliances that could run on solar energy. It's all part of the program of stepping up British exports, since such appliances wouldn't do much good in foggy Britain.

But there might be a big demand for them in places where sunshine is more reliable, the project chief explains.

Chimney Pots Feature Of House Design

CHIMNEY POTS are always a picturesque feature of the design of a house. They may be of many forms — simple pots for Colonial dwellings, or products of English Gothic, tudor or Georgian designs taken from old manor houses of England.

For the city house, suburban home or country estate, these pots are practical and appropriate. They add a final touch that gives the chimney a definitely finished appearance.

Measurements

The chimney pot at its ajex should not be less than two feet higher than the nearest peak roof and not less than three feet higher than the nearest flat roof. The flue of the pot should not be smaller than the chimney flue, although a larger flue is thoroughly practical.

A round pot can be used with a rectangular flue or vice versa.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO B-449

DESIGN B-449. This design is small in area but large in room sizes. A sneak-thru door in the bathroom eliminates the usual long hall. The bathroom doubles as a clean-up room and entrance to the central hall. Spacious bedrooms boast large wardrobe type closets and the coat closet has been placed in the central hall.

The kitchen is L-shaped with informal dining space, a broom closet and corner sink with corner windows that overlook the rear yard. The attached garage can be omitted very easily if lot is not wide enough. A "little different" look is achieved on the exterior by the use of wide V-joint vertical siding, plywood gable ends and casement type windows. Floor area is 952 square feet, cubage is 17,612 cubic feet (excluding garage.)

For further information about DESIGN B-449, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. In Canada, the Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, St. John, New Brunswick.

Wide Choice Of Materials For Cottages

SUMMER cottage owners have a wide choice of materials to use in finishing walls with the dry construction method—that is, without the introduction of water into the house, such as is necessary when plaster is used.

Many summer houses that are being fitted up, however, for year-round use are being plastered over insulating lath, gypsum lath or metal lath. Other owners prefer gypsum wallboard, which permits "dry" building, too.

For the owner who desires a paneled effect, large boards—up to four by 12 feet or even big enough to cover an entire wall with a ceiling of eight feet—can be used.

Available

These boards are available in the form of plywood, hardboard, composition board and wallboard.

Planks of insulating board, in natural finish or predecorated at the factory, offer many opportunities to the ingenious householder, since they can be run diagonally, vertically or horizontally. Many home owners prefer to use insulating-board plank with a hardboard or plywood wainscot.

Tiles, either natural color or factory predecorated, can be had in a wide range of sizes to suit rooms of most sizes.

New Cabinets Double Space

A NEW "Mr. and Mrs. Cabinet" doubles the storage space in the bathroom medicine cabinet. Because most bathroom medicine cabinets are overtaxed for space, a manufacturer has introduced an over-size cabinet with a double door and ample mirror coverage for twin lavatories, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

The new cabinet has overhead fluorescent lighting and outlets.

Guard Against Air Bubbles While Applying Varnish Coat

BEFORE REFINISHING an old piece of furniture with varnish, it is wise to remember that one simple precaution will prevent the surface of the furniture from having a rough look. This is caused by the varnish drying and leaving many small air bubbles.

The air bubbles are caused by shaking the varnish in the can as it is carried home from the store. Unless varnish is allowed to settle and the air bubbles have time to work to the top of the can and escape, they are picked up by the brush and carried onto the freshly varnished surface.

Sometimes a dirty brush will give this trouble but the former is the more likely cause.

Care Needed For Fixtures

THE LUSTROUS chromium plated finish on faucets, drain controls, showerheads, and other fittings in bathrooms, powder rooms, and kitchens may lose its original beauty because of improper care. The Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau advises that harsh abrasives or cleaners should not be used on chromium.

Regular cleaning with soap and water will keep chromium bright. After washing, chromium should be dried with a soft cloth.

Studies Big Help To Housewives

NEW medical studies to aid physically-handicapped housewives are developing techniques of benefit to fully able-bodied homemakers.

In a physical rehabilitation program conducted by a leading Eastern medical center, kitchens have been designed to reduce the amount of energy an ill or crippled woman has to spend in preparing meals.

Recommendations

Here are some of the recommendations resulting from the studies:

1. As many kitchen surfaces as possible should be of easily cleaned material.
2. The more the homemaker sits down to work, the more physical energy is conserved.
3. Height of work surfaces should be adjusted to the woman who will use them. These surfaces should be lower than standard for tiny women, higher for tall women.

Homeowners Satisfied With Bathrooms

A RECENT survey indicated that the average home owner was more content with his bathroom "as it is" than with any other room in the house.

When asked, however, what they would do with their bathrooms if money were no object—the floodgates were loosened for a corrent of ideas about novel bathrooms.

Equipment

Among the equipment earnestly desired for the dream bathroom were tubside telephones, built-in radios, book shelves, television sets, ash trays, reading lights, a receptacle near th esoapdish to set a highball glass, exercising devices and a chaise lounge covered with waterproof fabric to invite a post-bath nap.

Oen romantic respondent wanted the tub installed against a large picture window looking out upon a peaceful landscape — provided of course, privacy also could be had.

Children's Aid Society Willing To Add Protective Service For Neglected Child

The addition of protective service to neglected childrne to the regular work of the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County and the resignation of Mrs. Jean Albert as executive secretary were the big stories to come out of the annual business meeting held yesterday at noon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Tribute To Mrs. Albert

Mrs. Albert, under whose direction, the agency has advanced in many fields during the past eight years, is leaving to join her husband whose work has taken him out of the community. A formal citation of merit for her contribution to the community and to the policy and practice of the agency was presented to Mrs. Albert by Detleff Hansen, and a gift of appreciation from the board members was presented by Mrs. Donald Gilpin, president.

Mrs. Albert in her annual report told of the 98 Monroe County children and their 35 families who were served by the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County, with an average monthly caseload of 72 children and their families. There were 55 children cared for in foster homes; eight in special schools and institutions; and 16 in their own homes where counselling and planning was given to children and parents.

Changing Needs

A change in the needs as well as the numbers of children needing the Children's Aid Society was noted by Mrs. Albert. In the early years of the agency, its wards were young children, needing principally physical care. Now the children are older, and their problems are often emotional ones. To handle emotional problems needs trained workers, Mrs. Albert said, in addition to loving foster home care.

Protective service, she explained, was studied during the year by a committee headed by Mrs. Frederick Jones at the request of the county commissioners. The recommendations of that committee have been approved by the board of directors.

The problems of the agency, as outlined by Mrs. Albert, are mainly financial with rising costs complicated by the fact that the agency serves both public and private needs and new state welfare reimbursement to county government agencies.

Compared, however, to the $5 a day it costs to keep a prisoner in jail, the cost of being disturbed children to secure and useful adulthood is a small one, Mrs. Albert said.

Miss Roberta Andrews, associate director of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania, also discussed the problem of rising costs of agency care. The public is always ready to help when they see the need of an individual child, she said, citing the newspaper story of a mother forced to place her children for adoption which brought a flood of response in a community which felt it could not afford such care.

Honor Life Members

The loss of contact between giver and recipient was also brought out by Leonard Randolph in his tribute to the four honorary life members of the Monroe County CAS, Mrs. Rufus Miller, Mrs. W. Dolby Palmer, Dr. Elmer Kuntz and Mrs. Frank Diebert. Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Diebert were present for the dinner.

As charter members, these women pioneered in the field of care for dependent children, Randolph said, and through their own efforts in raising funds and explaining the function of the agency made the task of the present directors much easier.

Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., chairman of the State Advisory Committee of the CAS of Pennsylvania, reported on the state meeting, celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of the state society, founded in 1882.

Mrs. Gilpin presided at the meeting with Mrs. T. Floyd Rhodes, first president of the board, giving the invocation. Re-elected as board members for three year terms were Mrs. Jesse Flory, Mrs. Donald Gilpin, Mrs. R. F. Jones, John R. Lesoine, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Mrs. Adolph Rake, Mrs. T. F. Rhodes and Mrs. Joseph Williams. Mrs. B. I. Fansler gave the report of the nominating committee.

What Is Protective Service?

Within Monroe county, there are neglected children whose welfare has been nobody's business. Most children live in homes where their physical and emotional needs are the prime concern of their parents. Some children who cannot live in their own homes are cared for in carefully chosen and supervised foster homes, whether placed there voluntarily by parents unable to maintain a home or, in cases of flagrant neglect, by court order.

In between the two extremes are children whose parents have so many physical and emotional problems of their own that the children are neglected in many ways. To close this gap in child care, the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society has authorized that the society assume the responsibility of protective service, requested by the county commissioners and approved by the court.

Such a protective service would be brought into play only after a valid complaint had been made, either by another agency or an individual outside of the family. It differs from family service in many ways.

Family counselling is inaugurated by the family itself, and is a voluntary thing. Protective service results only from an outside complaint of neglect, and if after investigation the charges are proved true, the society has the responsibility to see that the family works out those problems for the ultimate welfare of the child.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Miss Anrews in writing up an advertisement for a new executive secretary of the Monroe County Children's Aid Society for professional magazines added as an inducement "delightful and cooperative board".

She rather reluctantly deleted the "delightful" after a number of raised eyebrows indicated that it was hardly professional wording. But they really are delightful, most of them, that is.

One big exception yesterday was I. About the kindest term you can apply to me this week is "eccentric". The big build-up of the special mail-away edition of the paper, election night madness, and a big personal proposition has effectively disrupted any trace of order in my days—or nights.

As my son used to be fond of telling me when the pressure got too great: "Take it easy, Mother, you're spinning your wheels". Well, it's a wonder Mary Leister wasn't spinning her wheels yesterday. Her whole mad day started before she was up with the news that the big Airedale dog belonging to visiting twin grandchildren had been hit by a car and was in serious condition. It got worse when her Mother got sick.

And ended last night with the executive board of the County Federation of Women's Clubs coming for supper. Believe it or not, the guests found the twins peacefully eating their supper in their highchairs, and Mary, willing and able to be a gracious hostess.

As for me, I can only envy but never hope to emulate.

Presbyterian Aux. Meets At Hauser Home

Rev. Luther Markin met with the group before their business meeting and told of their place in the church life. He asked for two members to be appointed to a Christian Education Committee formed by two representatives from each branch of church work; and to meet Sunday night at the church. Later, Mrs. Francis Drake and Mrs. H. J. LaBar were named to the committee.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Did you notice how many inspiring news stories there were in Sunday's paper?—the story of the well known author who gradually lost his sight ten years ago and now, after a decade of darkness, has regained it, thanks to what he considers a miracle worked by God; the story of the rescue of seven year old Benny Hooper from a well, by Sam Woodson, a negro, who describes himself humbly as "just a tool of God"; and the story, too, of Billy Graham's evangelistic miss'on in New York which is attracting crowds of persons numbering from 18,500 to 20,000 per evening. It was a pleasant change of pace to pick up the newspaper, and find something besides murder, gang warfare, divorce and scandal all over the front page—a timely way of setting us straight on human values. . . . The cosmetic department is due to receive a bill from me any day, for I've been conducting my personal crusade in favor of eye shadow. When applying shadow to the eyelids of the girls in the Pocono Community Chorus concert, I learned that most of them have never worn it and have considered it far too obvious for street wear. Particularly did the girls with glasses shy away from it. They even seemed surprised when I said, "I always wear it—especially when I have glasses on. Without it I'd appear to have no eyes at all." What's more the girls were delighted to see how easily my Helena Rubinstein eye-shadow stick could be applied. They had always associated eye shadow with pots of cream that didn't spread too easily and left ugly colored smudges on the fingertips. We know quite a few who said they were going to start wearing it now and would drop by to select a stick. Incidentally, even the men looked so handsome with the added touches of rouge and eye makeup, I don't know why we women don't campaign for more color on THEIR faces. But then, when it comes right down to it, we don't want the men to be too glamorous, do we?

May Smith, of our jewelry department, tells me she enjoyed Monday's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast, but that nothing anyone could say could possibly do justice to Evangelist Billy Graham. It seems he visited Pinebrook several years ago, and May heard him there. "He's a terrific young man," she said, "handsome and sincere. He's just wonderful." This is a feeling echoed by sophisticated Dorothy Kilgallen of the Hearst newspapers, who has been visiting with the Grahams in their home, and generally studying the man and his family at close range. . . . Here we are with Spring only an infant, and already a salesman of rubber wear is showing Carl Rohrbach a new line of boots, arctics, and overshoes. Of course, the way the weather is as I write this, winter may be just around the corner. . . . This is undoubtedly the weather for mink—if you own it. Or squirrel, muskrat, or even rabbit if you own that. I noticed that the best dressed of our Business and Professional Women the other evening were wearing wool suits or dresses and their fur capes or stoles. . . . Everyone in our store is much concerned over Tage Hellgren's three-month-old infant, who is hospitalized with pneumonia. Papa Tage is our Hoover salesman. . . . John Alexander, youngest son of the Holt Wyckoffs, was having a wonderful time trying out the scooters in our toy department last Saturday. "Hold it before it tips," he called to Mr. E. H., and when Mr. Wyckoff obliged, he immediately put both feet on the scooter and allowed himself to be taken for an effortless glide across the floor. That gleam of mischief in his eyes, is backed up by a keen head on his shoulders! . . . With the return of Manager J. L. Kerlin from New England, a number of other executives are off on a bus trip with the Wyckoffs to Jamestown. Harold Albert and wife, the Ruster sisters, and the Tommy Rincharts are just a few who are "happy on the way." . . . In the meantime, we expect Holt, Pearl and Bill Walters, and Doris and Bill iHnton home momentarily from Florida, the girls having won the trip for themselves and their husbands in a recent sales contest. . . . I notice that our housewares department is selling beautiful bowls for salad, pasta, spaghetti or chili at 5.98, and matching bean-or-stew pots at the same price. Also at 5.98 we carry lovely salad bowls with serving pieces and under-tray of flintwood. Nothing surpasses the beauty of summer hospitality, and we're all prepared for it at Wyckoff's.

IT'S THAT time again. The period when East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg highs' athletic teams come to grips on the field of sports battle.

This latest rendition of the "Battle of the Boroughs" takes place at Gordon Giffels Field Friday night—under the lights. The participants will be Jerry Stulgaitis' Mountaineer nine and Jack Kist's Cavalier diamond representatives.

Record-wise Stroudsburg will go into the contest with the better record. At this writing, the Mountaineers own a 6-4 win and loss mark. Eastburg, on the other hand, is sporting a 3-8 record.

In their respective leagues—Lehigh Valley and Lehigh-Northampton—the Mountaineers and Cavaliers are about as close as Mike and Ike. Stroudsburg finished up thet LV campaign with a 3-4 log, while Eastburg closed out the L-N with a 3-5 ticket.

But as the man has repeatedly said in the past, "team records of these two rivals mean nothing when they renew battle."

And from our vantage point, we couldn't call the man a liar. For instance, last year, Stulgaitis bypassed all of his pitchers and came up with Ron (Super) Phillips to pitch the big one at Eastburg's Memorial Stadium. And Phillips, making his first start as a Mountaineer hurler, pitched the Stroudsburg to victory.

This year it could be the same way, although, we doubt that either Kist or Stulgaitis will toss an untested moundsman at each other.

In Eastburg, it could be one of three pitchers to get the nod, even if some of them saw action yesterday at Wilson. After all the man also said, "you can't save them for next year. This is the big one and you've got to win it now."

But getting away from the man, the Cavaliers will have ready Curt Hickman, Charley Lupin and Evan Reese. Hickman has been Eastburg's winningest pitcher this year. He has tagged two of the three wins picked up by Kist's proteges. Reese is the owner of the other triumph.

One or all of this North Courtland St. threesome is capable of coming up with the big game. Each at times has shown better than average twirtling ability. But as capable as they are of stopping Stroudsburg, so are the Mountaineer batsmen just as adept in taking victory away from them.

Stroudsburg, for the most part, has been depending on two hurlers to carry the mound load this year. Although Stulgaitis has three extra chuckers in reserve, it has been Phillips and Jimmy Snyder this season.

Snyder has been the most effective West Main Street twirler. However, Phillips has drawn the assignment whenever Stulgaitis' boys came up against the league leaders in the Lehigh Valley League.

In back of this duo are Tom Gross, Byron Weaver and Frank (Buddy) Radler. Radler, probably the most consistent hitter on the team, has done some pitching this year, but only after leaving his outfield or first base position spots he has played regularly all season.

There is no doubt that either Phillips or Snyder will get the call. But Stulgaitis came up with a switch last year and could just as well dig around and come up with another surprise Friday at 8 p.m.

In offense, the two teams differ now as they did way back when the season started. When the Cavaliers kicked off the campaign they found hits hard to find. Stroudsburg, at the season's beginning, was running up a phenomenal 16-run per game average.

Of late, however, the Mountaineers have had their troubles getting a sustained attack going. Eastburg, it seems, have begun to find their hitting eyes.

Defensively, there is little to choose between the two rivals. Both are able to come up with miscues and each is capable of making the good play.

There are some of the facts, not all, but enough to hang any man who is crazy enough to wager on either team.

Cubs Top Giants On Miscues In 9th

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP)—Two infield errors, plus singles by Jack Littrell and Cal Neeman after two were out in the ninth gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the New York Giants today.

The Cubs' first Wrigley Field triumph in nine starts this season came after Stu Miller apparently had a two-hit victory in the bag on Willie Mays' theft of home in the sixth and Willie's No. 5 homer in the eighth for a 3-2 Giant lead.

Frailey Hurls New Kings To 6th Straight

TANNERSVILLE — Pocono Twp. High clinched the 1957 championship in the Monroe Scholastic Baseball League yesterday by dumping Chestnuthill, 5-3, here.

PAUL FRAILEY, a righthander survived a rocky first inning in which the visitors scored all of their runs, and pitched Harry Werkheiser's new kings to its sixth straight triumph.

A pair of triples by Earl Everett and Altemose gave Chestnuthill a 3-0 edge at the top of the first frame. But Pocono came back with two in the second and went ahead with two more in the third. The Tannersville team added its final tally in the fourth.

Eliminated

The loss was Chestnuthill's third and eliminated them from the pennant race.

Frailey outhurled Frable to get the mound nod. The Pocono pitcher was touched for only five hits. Frable allowed seven.

Pocono has two more games to play and can still drop both of them and hold on to the crown.

Barrett HRs Turn Back Tobyhanna

CANADENSIS — Homers by Charley Harrison and Gordon DiFuria powered Barrett High to a 11-7 Monroe Scholastic League victory over Tobyhanna here yesterday.

Harrison, the big gun in the winners attack, also slapped out two doubles to lead his mates at the plate.

A nine-run fourth inning salted the game away for Barrett. Gravel went the route to pick up the mound verdict. It was Barrett's second in six league games. Tobyhanna has failed to triumph in five tries.

Chisox's Pierce Stops Yanks, 3-1

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Billy Pierce pitched a four-hitter and drove in one of Chicago's three runs in the sixth inning tonight as the league leading White Sox gained their first victory of the season over the New York Yankees, 3-1.

Pierce, mixing a puzzling curve and a masterfully controlled changeup with his fast ball, retired the last 16 batters he faced.

Stroudsburg High Will Host Pocono Under Lights Today

STROUDSBURG High will host Pocono Township High's diamond team in an exhibition game under the lights at Gordon Giffels Field today. Game time is 7 p.m.

In a previous meeting this year between the two, the Mountaineers of Jerry Stulgaitis came out on top, 16-4.

Stroudsburg will go into the contest with a 6-4 record, while Pocono will enter the fray with only one loss on its record, Stroudsburg. Harry Werkheiser's nine have won six.

Burdette Peechaka will probably pitch for Pocono, while Jerry Stulgaitis will pick from Ron Phillips, Jimmy Snyder, Tom Gross, Frank (Buddy) Radler or Byron Weaver.

The Lineups

Stroudsburg will probably lineup with Don Stopp, catcher; Charley Cramsey, first base; Ron Stopp, second; Barry Tretheway, short; John Schoonover or Johnny Mirenda, third; Dick Cramsey, left; Bob Pugh or Phillips, center; and Radler or John Hallock, right.

Klaus Errors Let Tribe In, 8-2

BOSTON, May 21 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians turned a four-error inning and Chico Carasquel's grand slam home run into an 8-2 victory over collapsing Boston today behind the seven-hit pitching of Early Wynn.

Shortstop Billy Klaus, demoted from second to seventh in the batting order for the game because of his plummeting .181 average, was the tragic figure in the Red Sox defeat—their seventh in the last 10.

Zephyrs To Face Kids For Title

NORTHAMPTON and Whitehall will meet for the Lehigh Valley Baseball League championship this week. This was decided yesterday when the Konkrete Kids eliminated Palmerton, 6-1, in a playoff for the title.

Whitehall, Northampton and Palmerton had ended the regular LV season tied for first place.

Greene-Dreher Loses Out In Final Inning

NEWFOUNDLAND — Waymart High put over two runs in the top of the seventh and then halted a Greene-Dreher Sterling High rally in the final half to pull out a 3-2 victory over the Stags here yesterday.

The game went into the final inning knotted at 1-all before Waymart went ahead 3-1 and then suffered a one-run surge by the Stags to cinch the verdict.

Ed Thorpe bested Don Olsommer in the pitchers duel. The Stags' Olsommer, the losing hurler, had to have help from Bob Haag in the seventh to put out the Waymart fire.

Fans Dozen

Olsommer struck out 12 and walked three during his tenure on the mound. Thorpe touched for only four hits, fanned six, and passed two.

Weindland got two of the four Greene-Dreher hits, while Thorpe collected two of the five off Olsommer.

It was the Stags second straight loss after they had run up four consecutive wins.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 22, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Start the day with purpose, enthusiasm. Be alert for available opportunities. Introduce new and progressive methods into your work. Develop greater interest in current events.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Maintain a tempo consistent with demands. In free hours, replenish depleted energies for great activity later in the week. Don't let petty annoyances throw you off your stride. Be cheery!

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Decisive moves should be made only after careful analysis. Competition may determine the amount and quality of your efforts. Laudable objectives and adequate incentive are your best allies.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Be factual, specific and make use of all talents in those fields where you excel. Don't back a losing proposition or a worthless program. Day favors those who are energetic and ingenious.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Note Taurus. Give each activity the attention it deserves according to its importance. Sidestep unpleasant situation unless a principle is involved, then stand your ground.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Virgoans are noted for their endurance, but avoid a tendency to overstrain. Emphasize your fine intelligence and versatility in shaping a pleasant and productive program.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Avoid delays, confused action, carelessness. Don't listen to get-rich-quick schemes, either. Rather build your future on a firm foundation.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Use your keen judgment and shrewd thinking to attrain the top results you can have now. Waste no time on worthless propositions; instill in others the courage and confidence which are innately yours.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Bickering and dissension may be prevalent now. You've time to make plans to counteract them and proceed with a smooth, factual performance. Your innate sense of humor, diplomacy and tact should help you.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—A dignified approach is your "ace in the hole" now. While others argue, you can advance quietly, consistently. Make friends; help them in their problems.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—A lackadaisical attitude could ruin this fine day. While it may be difficult to apply yourself assiduously to tasks, you'll feel better if you "DO IT NOW."

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Scorpio notations also pertain to you, today. Be ready to snare the elusive opportunity and make it work for you. Discretion needed, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are of the volatile, vigorous and versatile Sign Gemini—always ready to go and do. You are often too demanding—of yourself as well as others. Be less restlessly active. Throw yourself sincerely into your life's work, yes, but also know when and how to relax, and permit others to do the same. Travel stimulates your mind, and you seem to have almost inexhaustible energy at this and other interests. Just be sure you do not scatter your gifts, then toward middle life find yourself with no definite trend, but adrift. The elderly of this birth sector often make remarkable new strides. Pray: practice tolerance, control emotions. Birthdate of Sir Arthur Conon Doyle, famous writer.
